CRAWFORD'S.

Wednesday.

Every woman in St. Louis must be buying a new silk dress. We had to stir our stumps pretty lively yesterday to wait on the crowd. The trimming plushes and velvets seemed specially to take everybody's eye, and the prices knocked the money out of their pocketbooks the first round.

Seems as if it's nothing but money, money all the time. A fellow don't more'n get through paying the ice man, when he's suddenly reminded that Katie and Jack need shoes and cloaks, and Harry's big enough to have a bed to himself, and there's extra blankets and a new mattress and pillows to buy; last winter's flannels have shrunk up so that the whole family's got to be fitted out with new. Your wife innocently remarks that she must try and fix up that old black silk, so's her mother won't know it's the same old silk she's worn the four years past, when she comes next month on her annual visit; and when you meet Jones and are hailed with, "Why, where's your overcoat, old boy? you look blue," and try to reply through your chattering teeth that you had no idea that it was so cold, etc., you'll bless your wife for trading it off for some china trash; and if you're wise you'll come down and convince yourself that you can save a third by getting your family and house dry goods of Caruthers Pitches a Hard Game Against the League Sluggers—Getzein Faces the Browns Again—The Struggle the Hardest Yet Seen Between the Leaders in the League and the American Association—A Magnificent Crowd Paying $1.50 for Reserved Seats to See the Game—Full Details of the Contest.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

BASE BALL PARK, DETROIT, Mich., October 12.—The special train bearing the St. Louis Champions and the Detroit Base Ball Club arrived here this morning at 10 o'clock. The weather was clear and bright during the early part of the day and the sun came out, giving promise of a fine day. Towards noon, however, it again clouded up and grew a trifle colder, but still it was not too cold to render the game uncomfortable either for the players or the audience. Detroit is visibly excited over the big series and all the cranks were crazy to see the Champion Browns play ball. Latham particularly was discussed and great anxiety to hear his famous coaching was expressed everywhere. President Stearns of Detroit prophesied that the attendance here to-day would be, other things equal, much larger than that which turned out to see the first or the second game at St. Louis. Detroit people believe that no club in the world is as fine as the Wolverines, and the sentiment is manifest in the betting at the only pool-room of note. There is some betting but not much. Five thousand dollars is the total sum that has been placed on the contests thus far, including the two games already played and to-day's game.

THE BETTING

is 10 to 8 against the Browns. This is on the single games. There is no bettinz at all on the series. One Detroit man telegraphed St. Louis last night, offering to bet $1,000 to $800 on each game to come, and to place $5,000 at the same rates on the series. He has not yet been taken.

THE BATTERIES

announced for to-day's game are Getzein and Bennett and Caruthers and Bushong.

THE BATTING ORDER

for the game is announced as follows:

Detroit — Richardson, 1.f.; Ganzel, 1b.; Rowe, ss.; Thompson, r.f.; White, 3b.; Dunlap, 2b.; Bennett, c.; Hanlon, c.f.; Getzein, p.

Browns—Latham, 3b.; Gleason, ss.; O'Neil, l.f.; Comiskey, 1b.; Caruthers, p.; Foutz, r.f.; Welch, c.f.; Robinson, 2b.; Bushong, c.

THE GROUNDS

were prepared especially for the big game, and extra accommodations were put on the field. Rows of chairs six deep were placed along the bleaching boards, and the grass on the grounds was trimmed neatly. As early as 1 o'clock this afternoon the crowd began to come in, and at 1:30 p. m. there were about five thousand people present. These came in at $1 a head, with a half-dollar extra for reserved seats. Just before the game the clouds lifted and the sun came out.

The Browns were the first on the field, and they were received with genuine enthusiasm. The Detroits appearance was greeted with a burst of wild applause. It was announced that play would be called at 1:30 p. m., but there was some delay and it was nearly 2 o'clock when the home club walked on the field.

THE GAME.

The umpiring was conducted on the same plan as in the first two games. The game opened with the Browns at bat.

FIRST INNING.

For the Browns, Latham got his base on balls, Gleason hit to Dunlap, who threw him out at first, and Latham was doubled at third on the play. O'Neill flew out to Hanlon. No runs.

For Detroit, Richardson hit to Latham, and was thrown out at first base. Comiskey put out Ganzel and Robinson's assist retired Rowe. No runs.

SECOND INNING.

For the Browns, Comiskey made a clean base hit through shortfield and went to second on Caruthers' safe hit to Dunlap. Foutz flew out to Richardson and Welch to Hanlon, but Comiskey scored on Robinson's short hit to center. Caruthers went to third and Robinson stole second. Robinson was declared out for interfering with White while throwing Bushong's hit. One run.

For Detroit, O'Neill caught Thompson's high fly in left field. Robinson took White's fly, and Dunlap was retired by Robinson's assist.

THIRD INNING.

For the Browns, Latham was jeered by the crowd for making a strike, but soon after drove the ball over White's head for a single. Gleason hit to White, and forced Latham out at second. Dunlap took in a pop fly that O'Neill hit, and Comiskey flew out to White. No runs.

For Detroit, Bennett knocked a high fly, which Welch gathered in. Latham caught Hanlon's high fly, Getzein made a clear ground hit, past Gleason and stole second, but Richardson's next grounder to Caruthers was fielded to first and retired the side. No runs.

FOURTH INNING.

For the Browns, Caruthers came to bat and died in the very same way Richardson did in the last inning by hitting to the pitcher. Foutz' high hit fly fell into Dunlap's hands and White's assist retired Welch.

For Detroit, Ganzel hit a bounder to Foutz in right who let it pass and the error brought the runner to third. Rowe's fly was captured by O'Neill, Thompson's foul fly by Latham, and the latter's assist retired White, leaving Mr. Ganzel standing on third bag, with the cold northwest wind blowing fiercely upon him.

FIFTH INNING.

For the Browns, Robinson made a "phantom" hit, but Bennett caught him at second although he made a desperate attempt to get there. Then Bushong made another phantom. Latham here began to bunt fouls and the crowd jeered him again and he finally forced out Bushong at second by hitting to White. Latham then stole second but Rowe's assist retired Gleason. No runs.

For Detroit, Dunlap hit to Comiskey, who threw to Caruthers, then covering first, retiring the champion kicker. Bennett got to first on balls and went to second on Hanlon's hit to right. Getzein, the only man who could hit Caruthers, struck out, and Caruthers' assist retired Richardson. No runs.

SIXTH INNING.

For the Browns, O'Neil was retired on a fly to Hanlon. Comiskey hit safe to left and got to second while the ball was being fielded in. Caruthers foul tipped out and Foutz flew out to Thompson.

For Detroit Robinson's assist to first retired Ganzel. Rowe hit safe to short field, but Foutz caught Thompson's fly. Rowe stole second base but Caruthers assist of White's grounder retired the side. The game was now exciting to the utmost limit and the crowd was at fever heat.

SEVENTH INNING

for the Browns, Welch led off with a single to third and reached second safely, while Dunlap dropped the ball. Robinson flew out to Dunlap and Bushong to Rowe. White's assist of Latham's bunt retired the side.

For Detroit Dunlap hit to Gleason and was fielded out prettily to first. Bennett's hit to Latham was handled in the same way as was Hanlon's to Caruthers. This fielding was simply perfect.

EIGHTH INNING.

For the Browns, Gleason hit cleanly over Dunlap, O'Neill was put out by White's assist and Comiskey by Getzein, Gleason going to second and third on the two plays. Cruthers retired the side by batting to first. The excitement was now very great and the audience began to grow nervous.

For Detroit Getzein succumbed to Caruthers' puzzles for the second time in the game and struck out. Richardson fell a victim to the same enigma. Ganzel hit to Caruthers, who threw wide. Rowe bunted, reached first safely, and Ganzel scored on slow handling of the ball, thus tying the score. Rowe went to second but Thompson fouled out to Latham. One run.

NINTH INNING.

When Foutz stepped to the bat in this inning he was presented with a gold-headed cane by his Detroit friends. He was then put out by Rowe's assist. Welch followed him with a single to center. Robinson's grounder to White was fielded to second retiring Welch. Bushong's safe hit to Dunlap advanced Robinson to second, but White's assist put out Latham.

For Detroit, Gleason's fumble let White go to first, but Dunlap flew out to Foutz, who doubled White at first, and Latham's assist put out Bennett.

TENTH INNING.

Gleason flew out to Ganzel, O'Neil to Hanlon. Comiskey was retired by Rowe's assist.

FOR DETROIT.

In this inning Hanlon was presented with a gold watch and chain, and was right away put out by Comiskey. Getzein flew out to Robinson. When Richardson stepped to the plate he was cheered by the crowd, who called on him vociferously for a home run. He then hit to Caruthers and his wild throw brought Richardson to third. He was sent back to second on the ground that the crowd interfered with the ball. However, Ganzel was put out by Comiskey.

ELEVENTH INNING.

Caruthers opened this inning by hitting to Getzeir safely. Foutz hit a terrible liner to Getzein which struck him on the knee injuring him a little. This brought Caruthers to second and Foutz reached first safely. Getzein went back to pitch, and as he did so he was cheered. Welch flew out to Thompson and Robinson struck out. Bushong flew out to Hanlon.

For Detroit, Rowe flew out to Welch, Latham's assist retired Thompson, and White flew out to O'Neil.

TWELFTH INNING

For the Browns, Latham hit safe to third, and Dunlap's assist retired Gleason, but Latham got to second. O'Neil flew out to Dunlap and Latham reached third. Rowe's assist retired Comiskey.

For Detroit, Dunlap's high fly was caught by Robinson, who ran into right field after it. Bennet fouled to Latham, and Robinson's assist retired Hanlon.

THIRTEENTH INNING.

For the Browns Caruthers flew out to Thompson, and Foutz to Hanlon. Welch hit safe to center and Robinson struck out. The people who paid $1.50 to see the game began to realize that this kind of base ball was worth the money.

For Detroit, Getzen hit safe to right. Richardson was put out at first by Robinson's assist, but Getzen reached second. Ganzel died as Richardson did, and Getzein got to third. Then Rowe hit to Robinson, who fielded the ball slowly, and Getzein scored, ending the agony amidst the wildest confusion among the audience.

The game was pronounced to be the greatest that was ever played on the Detroit grounds. The Detroit crowd howled and yelled and bellowed and threw the cushions of the chairs broadcast over the grounds. "I wouldn't have missed it for $50," said a big man in the grand-stand, as he hurled a cushion into the air.

A DANGEROUS WOMAN.

THE LIMOUSIN-CAFFAREL SCANDAL DEVELOPING NEW SENSATIONAL FEATURES.

Alarm Caused by the Revelations—Mme. Limousin's Alleged Influential Relations With Distinguished Personages—The Reported Speech of the Grand Duke Nicholas Officially Denied—Lord Salisbury's Health—Suspicious Movements of Disguised Russians in Afghanistan—Foreign News.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, October 12.—We are going on from surprise to surprise in the war office scandal. It is impossible, however, to give you any but a very faint idea of the painful impression, not to say alarm, which all these revelations are producing. The central figure in this affair is Mme. Limousin, who was married for the second time, about a year ago, to a retired magistrate of Tours. Her first husband was a M. Poulain. She is quite short, very plain and slightly hunchbacked, about 40 years of age and remarkably witty and clever. She is the daughter of a German nobleman, M. Von Schoenau, and one of her sisters-in-law is lady in waiting to the Grand Duchess of Baden. During the lifetime of her first husband she lived at Vincennes, where his salon was the resort of officers of the garrison. Gen. Thibaudin, formerly minister of war, was one of her intimate friends, and it is related that she gave him shelter after his escape from Germany during the war. She had the run of the war office, knew Boulanger among others, and Wilson, the son-in-law of Grevy. In a conspicuous place in her drawing-room figures a card of Boulanger on which are inscribed the words: "Expect you, dear madame, at 11 to-morrow," and the card of M. Wilson, who had written: "Shall be delighted to see you to-morrow morning."

LETTERS AND CONFEDERATES.

It is asserted that she is an intimate friend of the notorious Baroness de Kaula, who was expelled from France in 1878 for obtaining on behalf of Germany French government secrets from the Minister of War, Gen. De Cissey, whose mistress she was at the time. Letters from ex-President Grevy's son-in-law, Mr. Wilson, from M. Herbette, the French Ambassador at Berlin, and many other well-known people, have been found at Mme. Limousin's residence.

THE GOVERNMENT ALARMED.

It is asserted that the Government is greatly alarmed by the extent to which persons occupying a high official position are implicated in the matter, and that if the scandal had not become so public it would be only too glad to let the prosecution of Gen. Caffarel drop.

M. Wilson, President Grevy's son-in-law, has written a letter to the papers denying any knowledge of Mme. Limousin, who is connected with the Caffarel scandal, except that she pestered him with applications with the seeming object of blackmail.

The Temps says that the police have searched the residence of Gen. Count D'Andlau, the senator who is suspected of being an accomplice of Caffarel. The Senator left home yesterday and has not yet returned. Premier Rouvier had a conference yesterday with M. Boucher, the public prosecutor, with reference to the affair.

STARTLING DISCOVERIES.

PARIS, October 12.—A summary of the plan for the mobilization of the Seventh Army Corps, which was divulged by the Figaro, has been found in the house of Gen. Caffarel. A memorandum of sums of money received, presumably from the sales of decorations, has been found in Gen. Lax Andlau's house. It is reported that Gen. Lax Andlau has gone to either Brussels or Berlin. He declared that he did not wish to be confined in a prison previous to his trial, but that on the day of trial he would appear to answer the charges against him. The lady who was arrested yesterday on the charge of being implicated in the scandal is Countess St. Stauveror. Other arrests are imminent.

GETTING WORSE.

A Personal Description of Mme. Limousin—M. Wilson's Correspondence.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, October 12.—The Caffarel scandal is getting worse, and Paris is panic-stricken at the disclosures, the only fear being that something else has been sold besides crosses of the Legion of Honor. Mme. Limousin had a train of women of the worst character whom she reserved for important personages. Mrs. Crawford, the Paris correspondent of Truth and the Daily News, describes her as a crooked back in petticoats, with a dorsal hump and black, satanic eyes that catch the light, throw it back, and not wanting in fascination. M. Wilson, President Grevy's son-in-law, publishes a curious, almost unintelligible, correspondence which he had with this woman. The letters apparently show that nothing more serious passed between them than a little jobbery in connection with a provincial appointment for her husband. The general comment is that the whole evil is the result of Gen. Boulanger's introduction of politics into the army. Personally, Boulanger, of course, is clear.

LONDON GOSSIP.

Salisbury's Friends Anxious—The Missing Gunboat Wasp—A Crazy Claimant.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, October 12.—The health of Lord Salisbury is the cause of grave anxiety to his friends. The rumor of his withdrawal from public life is probable.

THE GUNBOAT WASP.

The missing gunboat Wasp of the British squadron in Chinese waters bears a name of ill-omen. Another Wasp, a gunboat of the same size, was lost in 1884 off the coast of Ireland with fifty of her crew.

A CRAZY CLAIMANT.

Richard Tichborne Doughty, the second claimant of the Tichborne estates, has been removed to the city lunatic asylum. He broke a street lamp in front of the Mansion House. On being arrested he said he wanted to see the Lord Mayor to get a little home rule.

England.

CONFERENCE OF DISSIDENT LIBERALS.

LONDON, October 12.—A conference of dissident Liberals was held in Bristol to-day. In a letter to the conference Lord Hartington said the concessions Mr. Gladstone was willing to make in regard to his Irish policy were dubious and inadequate. The conference, the writer declared, should reaffirm its determination to co-operate with the Unionists, without destruction of the party, to restore and maintain the supremacy of the law in Ireland.

BURIED AT SEA.

Lady Brassey died on board the Sunbeam, her husband's yacht, while bound for Australia, and was buried at sea.

THE NEWMARKET MEETING.

This was the third day of the Newmarket second October meeting. The race for the Middlepark Plate was won by Sir F. Johnston's chestnut colt Friars Balsam. Lord Londonderry's chestnut colt, Hazlehutch, was second and Lord Calethorp's chestnut filley, Seabreeze, third. There were five starters.

Wales.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK.

LONDON, October 12.—A slight shock of earthquake was felt at Merthyr Tydvil in water this morning.

Afghanistan.

SUSPICIOUS MOVEMENTS OF RUSSIANS.

CABUL, October 12.—Three hundred Russian subjects under Yed Yakoob Ali entered Herat in the guise of merchants. The Governor distrusting the object of their visit communicated with the Ameer, who ordered the Governor to refer to Mirahmea Khan, the Russian Governor of Murghab, whose reply is anxiously awaited. Elaborate military precautions are being taken at Herat. Trees are being removed and the canal and ditch are being joined in one.

Morocco.

THE SITUATION CRITICAL.

PARIS, October 12.—The Journal des Debats says that France does not desire to take possession of Morocco, or to injure the material interests of Spain. Moorish waters will soon witness an assembling of men-of-war of all countries, in which even America will be represented. The precise object of this assembling, the Journal continues, is unknown, and it is possible that the participants are animated by widely divergent intentions. If the object is to guarantee the equilibrium of the Mediterranean, the programme is extremely vague and very dangerous. France and Spain, who alone have direct and positive interests there, the chief of which is to prevent Morocco from becoming a second Bulgaria, should establish a mutual understanding. The Journal expresses a hope that the Sultan will recover and that the men-of-war will leave, which will be the best thing that can happen for Morocco.

Russia.

OFFICIALLY DENIED.

LONDON, October 12.—The Russian Government officially contradicts the report that Grand Duke Nicholas, in a recent speech, declared that under certain circumstances he and other Russians would join the French army.

Austria.

THE DUCHESS OF CUMBERLAND.

VIENNA, October 12.—The Duchess of Cumberland, who was put into an insane asylum some months ago, has completely recovered her reason, and will leave the institution on Saturday.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The Virginia Coupon and the Maxwell Cases—A New Depository.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 12.—Upon the reassembling of the United States Supreme Court to-day Chief-Justice Waite announced that the Court had decided to grant the writs of habeas corpus in the cases of Attorney-General Ayres, and two Commonwealth's attorneys of Virginia, who are now in prison in Richmond for disregarding the orders of Judge Bond in the "coupon crusher" litigation. The writs are made returnable on Monday next. The effect of this decision will be to bring the cases of the imprisoned State officers to this court without unnecessary delay for trial upon their merits.

THE MAXWELL CASE.

In case No. 1,150, Hugh Mottram Brooks, alias Maxwell, against the State of Missouri, commonly known as the Preller murder case, the Chief-Justice announced that in view of the representations of counsel for the prisoner to the effect that he is unable to pay the costs of prosecuting his appeal to this court the case may be proceeded with, notwithstanding the non-payment of clerk's fees, such fees being remitted; and that when both sides come to an agreement as to the parts of the record which it will be necessary to print, the court will make such an order with regard to the expenses of printing as may seem necessary.

A New Government Depository.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 12.—The American Exchange National Bank of New York was yesterday designated as a Government depository. The percentage of funds which depository banks may be allowed to hold upon bond securities have been increased in order to allow the banks to make profitable use of the funds. The surplus is now being utilized in this way.

The Samoan Troubles.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 12.—The United States steamer Adams has been dispatched to the Samoan Islands to protect American interests.

THE PANCAKE-THROWING CASE.

The Trial of the Woman Who Assaulted Mrs. Cleveland Postponed Again.

The case of Annie Knox, alias Sax, alias Lax, the woman who is charged with disturbing the peace by throwing a buttered pancake of the commercial variety at Mrs. Cleveland on the occasion of her visit to the Fair Grounds on Tuesday of Fair Week, came up in the Second District Police Court this morning. There was a large crowd present, doubtless anticipating the presentation of some humorous testimony, but they were disappointed, for after a long and tedious wait, during which numerous small and unimportant cases were disposed of, the Knox case was called. Mrs. Knox was on hand early and she did not display so much coquettishness and diffidence as on the occasion of her first appearance. Her costume was in radical contrast to that worn a week ago. Her hat was of black straw, but was trimmed with somber black ribbon, unrelieved by any edging of white as before. She wore a costume of blue flannel, with oxydized silver buttons in size about the dimensions of a dollar, and her feet were encased in stylish button gaiters. When the case was called the City Attorney thought he had his forces marshalled and was prepared to do or die, but when the name of Mr. Phil S. Lanham, Jr., was called the regulation three times and no response was made, he decided that he needed a continuance. He got it till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, and Judge White ordered the issuance of an attachment for Mr. Lanham, who had been notified to be present this morning. Mr. Lanham will undoubtedly be present to-morrow morning, when the case will be proceeded with. Had it not been for his unfortunate absence this morning, the case would have been disposed of, as all the other witnesses were present.

Pressmen Strike.

NEW YORK, October 12.—All the pressmen employed in the large concern of Theodore L. Devinne left in a body at noon to-day because of Devinne's refusal to make his establishment a card office. Devinne is the printer for the Century Company.

The Illinois River Convention.

PEORIA, Ill., October 12.—The Illinois River Improvement Convention to-day concluded its sessions, having adopted a platform setting forth specifically, improvements and appropriation demanded of Congress. Notwithstanding expectations to the contrary, the platform contains a plank indorsing the Hennepin Canal project.

FIVE IN ONE DAY.

A QUINTETTE OF WEDDINGS IN ST. LOUIS SOCIETY.

Mr. Chas. J. Healy Wedded to Miss Isabel Chouteau, Mr. Charles A. Scudder to Miss Minnie Mason, Mr. J. Paulding Camp to Miss Mellie Haydock, Mr. W. Daviess Pittman to Miss Sallie D. Patterson and Mr. Joseph Griesedieck to Miss Matilda Griesedieck.

The peal of marriage bells began early this morning, and there are five weddings to chronicle for the day.

HEALY-CHOUTEAU.

St. Xavier's Church, corner of Grand avenue and Pine street, was filled at an early hour this morning with wedding guests to witness the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Isabel Chouteau, second daughter of Mrs. Peter L. Foy, to Mr. Charles J. Healy of New York. The altar and chancel were elaborately decked with flowers, and innumerable lights blazed from amid the dark green foliage and gay colored flowers. Within the chancel rails was placed the prie dieux, covered with satin and trimmed with tulle, before which the bride and groom knelt during the solemn service, wh ch was performed with nuptial mass, by the Right Rev. Bishop McClosky of Louisville, Ky., Father Corbitt reciting the mass. Promptly at 11 o'clock the peal of the wedding march gave notice of the approach of the bridal cortege, which was preceded by the ushers, Messrs. Lil McNair, John Alden, Walter Taylor, Will Coleman, Lorrell Papin and James Byrnes.

The bride, accompanied by her younger sister, Miss Agnes Foy, walked slowly up the aisle and was met at the altar by the groom, accompanied by his best man, Mr. Fuller of New York.

She wore a wedding robe of pure white satin duchess, very heavy and falling in plain, straight folds from the waist, en traine, and finished with a heavy cord. Across the front was draped a deep flounce of very fine point d'Aiguille lace, looped high on the side beneath a garland of white roses which extended to the bottom of the dress. The corsage, cut high at the back, was open at the throat and finished with a Medicis collar overlaid by the lace; corsage bouquet of white roses. In her ears sparkled diamond solitaires presented by the groom, which was the only ornament worn save the diamond-studded bracelet presented by Miss Johnson, the niece of the groom. Her hair was worn high and the bridal veil fell like a mist about her, covering entirely, but not concealing the elegant toilet.

Miss Agnes Foy wore a gown of white faille made short and completely veiled with fine lace, the draperies confined with a broad sash of pink moire, and trimmed with flots of pink ribbon. She wore a bonnet of pink tulle, and carried in her hand a large bunch of pink roses.

Mrs. Peter L. Foy wore heavy black satin duchess en traine, with draperies of fine black thread lace, and garniture of pointe lace.

Miss Eugenia Chouteau wore a Paris toilette of moss green faille, combined with a light shade of green watered silk, with bonnet of the same shades, and green gloves.

Miss Johnson of New York wore white faille Francais combined with white satin brocade, with full draperies and corsage montant; demi sleeves with long gloves, and white tulle bonnet, trimmed with ostrich tips.

THE RECEPTION.

After the ceremony the bridal party and their invited guests repaired to the family residence, where a reception was held from 12 to 3 o'clock. The broad halls were lined with foliage and blooming plants and the stairway and chandeliers garlanded with similax; the fire-places filled with ferns and palms, and the mantel-pieces banked with cut flowers, filling the air with fragrance. Behind a screen of tropical plants an orchestra was stationed, rendering all the while a choice selection of music. Within the hospitable halls was gathered the flower of the old French families and the haut ton generally.

Mr. and Mrs. Healy will leave late this afternoon for the Eastern resorts before going to Jersey City, where the groom has prepared a beautiful home for his bride.

Scudder—Mason.

The next wedding upon the list was that of Miss Minnie Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac N. Mason to Mr. Charles A. Scudder. The ceremony was performed with the rites of the Episcopal Church by Rev. Dr. Holland of St. George's Church, at the handsome home of the bride's parents on Missouri avenue. The house was elaborately decked with plants and flowers, a large semi-circle of dark-leaved foliage plants forming a pretty background for the bridal party, in their pure white gowns. There were four bridemaids, Miss Mamie Scudder, Miss Sadie Gillespie, Miss Anna Allen and Miss Julia Case. They were all dressed alike, in white faille, made dancing length, with plain full skirts of tulle, without draperies. The corsages of white moire were cut in deep points back and front, and finished with folds of tulle. In their hands they carried bunches of Bon Silene or Marechal Niel roses. Their only ornaments were a souvenir pin presented by the bride, a cluster of forget-me-nots, with a diamond dew drop in the center of each flower.

The groomsmen were Messers James Scudder, George Mason, Cliff Scudder and Ed Peters. The bride wore a rich robe of faille Francais, made with a long princess train, the tablier covered by a wide flounce of duchess lace, set in a panel formed of side pleats of the faille on the left side. The bodice was cut in deep points back and front overlaid by pointe lace, and filled with the same lace, forming a V. No sleeves. She wore a tulle veil without ornament, and carried a bunch of white roses. Her only ornaments were a pair of diamond solitaires, the gift of the groom, and a forget-me-not pin, matching those presented to her bridemaids. The groom presented to each of his attendants a scarf pin, formed of a daisy, with a diamond center. There were about two hundred invited guests in attendance, and an elegant collation was served by Beers, while an orchestra stationed in the hall, furnished a delightful programme of music. Mr. and Mrs. Scudder will leave this evening for the Eastern resorts.

Pittman—Patterson.

At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon Mr. William Daviess Pittman was married to Miss Sallie D. Patterson, only daughter of Mr. Robert D. Patterson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. C. Tully, at the family residence, No. 2828 Locust street, in the presence only of the family and intimate friends. They were attended by his brother, Mr. Asa Pittman, and Miss Leila Wilkerson. Mr. and Mrs. Pittman will leave this evening for Memphis and New Orleans, to be absent three weeks. When they return they will be at home to their friends at No. 2828 Locust street, Fridays in November.

Camp—Haydock.

The fourth wedding of the day was that of Mr. John Paulding Camp to Miss Mellie H. Haydock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Haydock, will take place at 5 o'clock. The spacious home of the bride on Missouri avenue was very elaborately decked with plants, the broad stairway garlanded with smilax and groups of palms, and foliage plants placed at convenient points in the halls and salon, and forming a screen for the Spiering orchestra, which was placed under the stairway. Between the two large windows in the salon was formed a bower of foliage plants, canopied with smilax, beneath which the bridal couple stood during the ceremony, which was of a very unusual character, as it was according to the custom of the Friends, to which order Mr. and Mrs. Haydock and family belong. As there is no society nearer than Cincinnati, it was necessary for the contracting parties to send to that organization to procure their consent. It then became the duty of the society to appoint a member to proceed to St. Louis to inquire into the affair, and if it proved to be entirely satisfactory he was empowered to sign the marriage contract, which is highly ornamental, being emblazoned upon parchment in colored letters painted by hand, with space allowed for 100 witnesses to the contract. Mr. White of Cincinnati was the representative of the Society of Friends at Cincinnati, and Mr. Robert Douglas of Cincinnati will officiate at the wedding ceremony, which is unique.

At the first strains of the wedding march the bridal party will descend the stairway, the maid of honor, Miss Atha Haydock of Cincindati, leading the way. She will wear a dainty toilet of pale pink silk made dancing length, covered with full skirts of pink tulle, the bottom of the skirt bordered with pink roses, and the draperies looped with pink moire ribbons. The bodice of pink moire is cut en V, back and front, and filled with tulle drawn close to the throat, with sleeves of the tulle puffed to the elbow, where they are met by long pink gloves. She will carry pink roses, and pink satin slippers will complete the pretty rose toilet.

She will be followed by the other bridemaids, single file, Miss DePauw of New Albany, Miss Eugenia Keen, Miss Josie Camp and Miss Jessamin Teasdale. The young ladies will all be costumed exactly alike in white faille thickly veiled, with diaphanous skirts of white tulle undraped. The bodice is of white moire cut in deep points back and front and filled with tulle drawn close about the throat; flots of moire ribbon fall from beneath the bodice at the back; sleeves of tulle puffed to the elbow where they are met by long white gloves. They will carry large bunches of pink roses tied with pink satin ribbons; white satin slippers will complete the dainty toilets. After the bridemaids will come a little flower girl dressed in white, garlanded with daisies, strewing flowers in the pathway of the bride, who follows leaning upon the arm of her father. The groom follows, supported by his brother, Mr. Ed Camp, and Mrs. Haydock will close the procession with Mr. Oscar Haydock.

The ushers who will be ranged opposite the bridemaids are Mr. Charles Waterhouse, Mr. Louis Maguire and Mr. E. C. Rice of Oscalcosa, Io. To each of the groomsmen has been presented by the groom a scarf-pin formed of a nugget of gold set with a diamond. To each of the bridemaids the bride has presented a souvenir pin, a golden buttercup, to which is attached on one side by a chain a cluster of six forget-me-nots, with diamond center; on the other side by a chain, the letters "C. H" in colored gold.

The bride will wear an elegant robe of white, uncut silk, with long princess train finished with a heavy silken cord and falling in plain, straight folds from the waist. The front is covered entirely by point duchess, which also fills the V-shaped corsage; the large puffed sleeves reach the elbows, where they are met by long white gloves, and in her hands she will carry a bunch of white orchids. The veil of tulle is sprigged with delicate white flowers set with a dewdrop and the bottom is fringed with lilies of the valley, completing a unique and charming toilet. After the ceremony an elegant repast will be served by Beers to the numerous guests invited to the reception. The third floor is set apart for the bridal presents. This suite of apartments has been furnished by Mrs. Hayd ck for the occupancy of her daughter. Mr. Haydock presented a cluster diamond pin. Mr. Camp presented his bride with a bracelet set with diamonds and rubies.

Miss De Pauw presented a valuable statue of "The Diver" in marble, with marble pedestal, from Italy. In addition there were a great many valuable presents.

Griesedieck—Griesedieck.

The fifth wedding does not take place until 9 o'clock this evening, when Miss Matilda Griesedieck will be married to Mr. Joseph Griesedieck. The ceremony will take place at the family residence on Missouri avenue, Rev. Dr. Jonas of the German Lutheran Church officiating. They will be attended by Miss Tony Griesedeck and Miss Lulu Brady. The ushers are Mr. Louis V. Hetzel and Julius Rombauer. The floral decorations are very elaborate. Besides groups of foliage plants and garlands of evergreen, an arch will be formed of smilax in the bay window, with a background of palms and tropical plants upon which white doves will be perched. The bride will wear a very handsome bridal robe of pure white moire, with long princess train, finished with a heavy cord ar und the bottom; on one side is placed a broad flounce of pointed duchess lace, laid flat from the waist to the foot of the skirt with a sash of the silk, loosely knotted at the end, concealing the joining of the two lace folds, and falling over the fan-like folds of the lace at the bottom. About the deep pointed cortage will be worn a girdle of silver and gold knotted in front. The corsage is cut en-V back and front and filled with the duchess lace; no sleeves and long gloves. She will wear no ornament save the gift of the groom, a brooch set with diamonds. She will carry a bunch of white roses. The veil of tulle will be worn without ornament.

Miss Brady will wear white sole de France, made with long draperies and corsage cut in deep points back and front. She will carry a bunch of Mermet roses.

Miss Griesediek will wear white faille, made dancing length, with soft full draperies of tulle, besprigged with chenille. The corsage is cut decollete and sleeveless, and she will carry a bouquet of Marechal Niel roses.

Mrs. Heroid, sister of the bride, will wear white faille Francais, en traine, with low cut corsage trimmed with duchess lace; sleeveless and long kid gloves.

A marque has been erected upon the lawn, where the banquet will be served by Faust, and an orchestra will be in attendance for the dance. Mr. and Mrs. Griesedieck will go East on their wedding journey.

"PEACEABLY if you can," but by all means keep Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in the house.

THAT RIVER MYSTERY.

The Body Recovered Now Known to Be That of Mary Weiss.

It is now almost certain that the body found in the river opposite East Carondelet, Monday morning was, after all, the body of Mary Weiss, the woman drowned last week by the upsetting of a skiff. This was thought to be the case at the time, as in height, dress, etc., the body answered Mary Weiss' description. An examination of the body yesterday morning, however, resulted in the discovery in her pocket of an envelope addressed to Nellie C. Johnson, Female Hospital, St. Louis, Mo. A bag of sand was also found attached to her body and there was a wound in her head. The body was also thought to be in a too advanced state of decay to have only been in the water since last week, and her ha r was too dark, being auburn, while Mary Weiss was described as having light red hair. All these things were taken as conclusive evidence that it was not the body of Mary Weiss, but the body of Nellie C. Johnson, and that the woman had met with foul play. The body was yesterday buried as the supposed body of Nellie C. Johnson.

This morning Mrs. Mary Hassett of No. 1214 North Eighth street, a friend of Nellie C. Johnson, called at the Coroner's office at the Four Courts to inquire into the matter. She was convinced it was her body that had been found in the river, and felt certain the woman had committed suicide. Mrs. Hassett did not think she had been murdered. The Female Hospital was telephoned and Dr. Dorsett, the Superintendent, stated that such a woman had been in the institution two or three different times. On the 20th of September she was last admitted, and she was still out there. He was positive the body taken from the river was the body of Mary Weiss, as Nellie C. Johnson had given her an addressed envelope when the Weiss woman left the institution, and had requested her to write her. This was the envelope found on the body.

At the Coroner's office they state that accumulations of sand are frequently found in the dresses of female bodies taken from the river, and that a body which has been in the water several days is very apt to be badly decomposed. As to the hair, they state that it would naturally be much darkened by being much soaked in water several days. They place no confidence in the murder theory. A hole in the head might easily be received by a body coming in contact with something. There can be little doubt about the body being that of Mary Weiss. Jack Morrison, Henry Leitner and William Schureman, three of the four men who were in the skiff when it was upset and the woman drowned, are in jail on a charge of culpable negligence. Jack Singer, the fourth man, is out of the city.

GRAND LODGE, A. F. AND A. M.

Committees in Session This Afternoon—The Saloon-Keeping Question.

The Grand Lodge of Missouri, A. F. and A. M. assembled in their second day's session at 10 o'clock this morning at Masonic Hall. At their session yesterday afternoon the Grand Master appointed the general committees on Jurisprudence, Appeals, Chartered Lodges, New Lodges, Charities, Accounts, Finances, Ways and Means, District Deputy Grand Masters and By-Laws. Two special committees were appointed on Arrested Charters and the Masonic Home. The committees were instructed as to their duty and most of them met during the evening in pursuance of their work.

The work this morning consisted of hearing the reports of the committees on the Masonic Home, District Deputy Grand Master, Charities and Appeals and Grievances. There was nothing of public interest in these reports, and they were disposed of rapidly, and at 12 o'clock the meeting adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow, leaving the work in the hands of the committees, who were engaged on their respective assignments during the afternoon.

The report of the Committee on the Memorial Home shows that a total of $69,442 has been collected for that institution, with an expenditure of $558.36. The committee recommend the appropriation of $5,000 more by the Grand Lodge at this session and a similar amount annually for the support of the home.

The disposition of the report of the Committee on Arrested Charters, particularly the portion referring to Naphtali Lodge, will attract the most attention. Judge Givan is the Cha rman of this committee. The Grand Master, in his report, recommends the law of 1882 in regard to expelling saloon keepers from the order as a good one, and advocates its enforcement. It is thought that strong pressure will be brought to bear against the enforcement of this law, not however from any desire to retain saloon-keepers in the ranks, but in justice to those who have been members of the order for a long time, and it is thought that a compromise will be effected, allowing those already in to remain, but that rigid rules against the admission of saloon-keepers will be provided.

It is expected that the report of this committee will be heard to-morrow. The election of officers for the ensuing year will also take place to-morrow, and it is probable that all business will be finished up, although the session may continue until late in the evening.

The Grand Secretary's report shows the following financial condition of the order in the State: Cash on hand last report, $13,092.11. Income for 1887, $13,363.69; sale of Henry County bonds, $5,350; coupons of Henry County bonds, $240; Cole County bonds, $4,000; total, $36,045.50. Disbursements, $12,155.17. Total assets, $23,890.33.

5,000 MEN'S overcoats at $1.95; our $4.50 fur beaver overcoats are sold at $6.50 elsewhere. GLOBE, 705 to 713 Franklin avenue.

MAUD MILLER

AN APPLICANT FOR AID AT THE MAYOR'S OFFICE TO-DAY.

She Disappears Before She Can be Identified by the Officers—The Scheme of Annexing the Wards for the New School Districts—Calling on the Blackballed Comptroller—Municipal Matters.

"I am Maud Miller, daughter of Joaquin Miller. My husband and I belong to the theatrical profession. We have been left here without means. Is there any possibility of our procuring transportation to New York?" The questioner was a young women from whose face no accurate notion of her age could be formed. She leaned over the railing in the Mayor's public office this morning. In the carpeted precinct within the enclosure stood Sergt. McGrew, and a very strong suspicion that the applicant was not the person she represented herself to be in the little introductory speech. After hearing her request the Sergeant replied: "As far as this office, which is not a Transportation Bureau, is concerned, there is no way to provide you with transportation to New York." He was about to explain why when the party before the railing made a battalion wheel and walked out of the office. When the Receiver of the Unclassified Hosts reported the matter at the minor office no trace of the young woman, whose shifts are well known since leaving her father's cottage in the outskirts of Washington, could be found about the hall. Miss Miller's husband referred to by the lady calling at the Mayor's office this morning, is Louden McCormack who is well known in this city, where his mother lives. Prior to his marriage to Miss Miller the mother depended on him for support, but for several years has heard little of her son. He was formerly connected w th M. B. Curtis' company. Miss Miller's marriage to McCormack at Chicago, her differences with her father and her poverty we-e given considerable publicity at one time. When Sergt. McGrew was asked for a description of the young woman wh made such a sudden descent and departure, he said the only description he could give was that she wore a red dress and was a person of very doubtful age.

The New Districts.

Recorder of Voters Williams is preparing for the order which will probably be made soon by the Circuit Court for the next school election. Speaking of the plan for redistricting the city Major Williams said: "The plan presented by the POST-DISPATCH is the best one that can be made under the terms of the law. I have figured out the proposed annexations and find that this will give each district as nearly an equal number of votes as any other arrangement that I can see will accomplish. Figuring on the basis of the last election for the Municipal Assembly, I am inclined to believe that the majorities are not so large as stated. Some changes may be made in the annexation of some of the wards in the central portion of the city, but I think the general order will be the same as published."

Sympath zing Friends.

Comptroller Campbell received several callers who sympathized with him over his defeat in the Hendricks Association. Speaking of the animus of the parties who cast the black balls the Comptroller said: "Mine is an office which makes me a party to at least one fight per day. Most people doing work for the city think it all right to put in a bill for their services that is outrageous. It is my duty to fi ht off these claims and I thereby make enemies. I'm sorry that this keeps me from admission to the Association, but as I did not ask it I guess I can stand it."

When the Comptroller was told that Committeeman Steffen's objection was the employment of Republicans in his office he said he would see that Garbage Contractor Jim Hardy was investigated on the same ground, as it is a notorious fact that all his cart drivers are Republicans. If this explanation held good several members of the Association will be obliged to surrender their memberships.

Municipal Notes.

A meeting of the Board of Health will be held to-morrow. No special business has yet been docketed.

BEFORE JUDGE CADY.

A Row Among Would-Be "Pugs" Decided in Court—Other Cases.

Leigh Matthews, a young aspirant for pugilistic honors who frequents Daly Bros.' saloon, was before Judge Cady this morning on a charge of disturbing the peace of John Burke, a steamboatman. It appears that Burke visited the Dalys' saloon about 1 o'clock this morning, and was rather noisy and boisterous. He had been told before that he was not wanted about the place and to remain away, but he came back. Neither of the Dalys were in the saloon this morning, and when Burke began getting troublesome Matthews, who is better known as "Butch," and is quite a powerful young fellow, undertook to eject him. A fight ensued, and when Burke was finally landed out into the street he presented a terrible sight. Blood was pouring from his nose and left ear, both of which were cut open. Officers Collins and Wilson arrested Matthews and sent his victim to the City Dispensary for repairs. At the trial Burke claimed Matthews had bitten his nose and ear, but this the defendant denied, claiming he had inflicted the injuries with his fist. Dr. Jacobson of the City Dispensary was sent for and examined the wounds. He gave it as his opinion that they were bites, and Judge Cady fined Matthews $300, which will keep him at the Work-house for six months.

Philip Hemilch and his brother, Anthony, were tried on a charge of disturbing the peace of the former's wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Hemilch. The woman testified that she lived at No. 2717 Papin street, and that last evening both her husband and brother-in-law began quarreling with her and beat and choked her. Her 12-year-old daughter corroborated her testimony. Both brothers swore on the stand that the woman's brother-in-law had been intimate with her, and that she was a most worthless character. When they had concluded, Judge Cady gave them a talk that made them hang their heads in shame. "Any brother," said he, "that would be intimate with another brother's wife is not worthy of belief under oath, and a man who would submit to his brother being intimate with his wife is even worse. I will fine you $100 each."

Thomas H. Lasley was fined $50 for falsely impersonating an officer. It is said that his father is a member of the force and getting his father's star while the parent was sleeping Lasley has been parading through Benton Park with it on his breast and asserting his authority as an officer of the law. He did it several days before he was arrested.

A Huckster's Suicide.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

HENDERSON, Ky., October 12.—Yesterday afternoon the body of a white man, named Geo. Lively, was discovered suspended by the neck from the limb of a tree about three miles from this city. A Coroner's inquest was held, the verdict being suicide. Lively was a huckster who lived in Webster County. He was addicted to drink, and was just recovering from a spree when he committed the rash act.

THE BIG FAILURE.

HENRY L. NEWMAN DENIES RUMORS ABOUT HIS SPECULATIONS.

He May Have Lost $1,000 in New York Stocks but That Would Not Have Affected His Firm—No Meeting of the Creditors Called—Mrs. Newman's House Goes to the Stock Yards Bank—Probable Outcome of the Whole Affair.

The announcement yesterday of the failure of Watson B. Farr, Henry L. Newman and the Niobrara Cattle Company attracted widespread attenti n. Mr. Farr and Mr. Newman were not very well known in the commercial world or on 'Change. Their business was transacted almost entirely on the other side of the river and in the far West. The Stock Yards Bank was well known among cattlemen, but it did comparatively little business with any one outside of that class. In banking circles the members of the firm of Newman & Farr and the Niobrara Cattle Company were well known. The Niobrara Cattle Company was pretty well known on Third street. Some of the stock which had been put up as collatteral had been offering about for some time with no bids for it.

On the Exchange yesterday there was current an unpleasant rumor to the effect that Newman & Farr had lost largely by speculation. The basis of the rumor was the fact that Mr. Newman had been seen in the offices of Switzer & Mulford and Page McPherson, watching the New York stock and Chicago grain quotations pretty closely. This story spread very rapidly among those who knew very little of Newman & Farr or their business, and this morning it assumed a greatly exaggerated form.

HENRY S. NEWMAN

was not to be found at his office yesterday, and this morning the office in the Turner building was still closed. Mr. Newman was met on Third street later and interrogated about the rumor. He denied that speculation had anything to do with the failure.

"The bank never had a speculative transaction on its books, and neither did the Niobrara Cattle Company," said he. "I speculated a little, but my losses amount to nothing—they would not aggregate $1,000. They did not affect us in the least."

"Have you formulated any proposition to make to your creditors?"

"No; we have not had time to think of that yet."

"What will you be able to pay?"

"Our affairs are in such a confused state now we can arrive at no conclusion. We are having matters straightened up as rapidly as possible."

"Will you continue in the cattle business?"

"I really cannot say, as yet."

"Will the failure in any way affect any of your creditors?"

"Oh, no. The indebtedness is held by a few people, but it might all be held by any one of them and not affect him seriously. The Niobraro Company has money coming in all the time which will meet many of the obligations."

THE BANK TRANSFER.

There is a general belief on the street that Mr. Newman and Mr. Farr will not come out of this disaster as badly off as might appear at present; in fact, it is considered very probable that Newman & Farr will resume possession of the Stock Yards Bank within a year and continue business at the old stand. Mr. Knox is now continuing the business of the bank. The bank is in a perfectly solvent condition. Before making an assignment of the business of the Nibrara Company, Mr. Newman and Mr. Farr transferred the banking business to Mr. Knox, and with the business enough money and other property to make the accounts of the bank good. Mrs. Farr's house and lot were placed in Mr. Knox's hands, and Mrs. Newman's house and lot were also put up as collateral to make the bank's accounts good. When the affairs of Mr. Newman and Mr. Farr and the Niobrara Land & Cattle Company are wound up it is quite within the range of possibilities that Mr. Knox will transfer the Stock Yards Bank back to Newman & Farr. The firm may not have a large amount of capital, but it will have the good business which it has been cultivating for some years and which is now paying.

Under these circumstances it is also possible that some of the Eastern creditors will object to the transfers of pr perty made to the bank. If Newman & Farr, cattlemen, pay 25 cents on the dollar and Newman & Farr, bankers, pay 100 cents on the dollar, the cattle creditors may want to divide up with the creditors of the bank. In pursuance of this communistic idea they may move to have these transfers set aside.

Mr. Newman is not supposed to be a large owner of Gas Trust certificates. He represented the Gibbs interest in the trust and he was looked on as something of a figurehead. His failure had no effect on the market for trust certificates, which has ruled dull this week.

SEEKING THE CAUSE.

THE TERRIBLE DISASTER ON THE CHICAGO & ATLANTIC RAILROAD.

The Coroner's Inquest at Huntington, Ind.—Interesting Testimony of the Train Hands—A Fatal Delay—Danger Signals Not Seen Owing to the Fog—The Dead and Injured.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., October 12.—The News special from Huntington, Ind., says the dead in the Kouts' wreck on the Chicago & Atlantic Railroad are:

DR. WILLIAM PERRY, wife and daughter, of North Judson, Ind.
CHARLES MILLER,
MRS. LENA MILLER,
FRED MILLER,
WILLIAM MILLER,
HERMAN MILLER,
MINNIE MILLER, all of Dundee, Ill.

THE INJURED.

DR. CHARLES WRIGHT,
MRS. E. BOYERS,
ENGINEER DORSEY,
FIREMAN WILLETS of this city.

None of the injured are in a serious condition and are doing well.

The Coroner of Starke County, who accompanied the dead and wounded under the escort of the railroad officials, took testimony up to midnight.

Painfully Injured.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., October 12.—Dr. Charles Wright and Mrs. E. Ayres of Huntington, were among the wounded in the railroad wreck at Kouts.' Their injuries are painful, but not dangerous.

THE INQUEST.

The testimony before the Coroner here, as to the horrible collision on the Chicago & Atlantic road near Kouts', began with the deposition of J. B. Parks, conductor of the passenger train. He testified that his train was nearly two hours late, having broken an eccentric strap on the engine between Hurlbut and Boone Grove. "We stopped for water east of Boone Grove," he continued. "In three minutes, Train No. 48 struck us on the rear end, and telescoped the sleeper into the ladies' car, smoker and baggage car. The wreck took fire at once. We got eighteen passengers out. Nine were killed and burned. The semaphore was turned when we stopped. I did not know the freight train was coming. When it struck us it was running at the rate of about twenty miles an hour."

BRAKEMAN JACOBS.

J. W. Jacobs, passenger brakeman, testified that he turned the semaphore. He saw Brakeman Cotton going back with the signal light. He could not see the headlight of the freight engine until it was only about eight or ten car-lengths away. It was coming down grade at about twenty-five or thirty miles an hour.

J. S. P. Cotton, second brakeman on the passenger train, was then examined. He said: "I was told by Conductor Parks that 'we had forty-eight and forty-eight extra and to look out.' I jumped off our train before we stopped at the State-line ditch tank and ran back to flag the freight train. The freight called for brakes. I was knocked senseless by the passing freight."

B. Connor, engineer, and S. E. Penfield, fireman on the passenger train, testified that their engine was disabled. It had not stopped more than three minutes when the fast freight struck their train. The collision occurred about two minutes after the semaphore light was turned. The passenger train was behind time and the head brakeman was assisting at the engine when the crash came.

Engineer Dorsey and Fireman Willetts of the fast freight, testified that they started out on time, and received no orders as to any passenger engine being disabled and behind time. When Boone Grove was reached the signal was all right, and the operator told them to go ahead, giving no other orders. They did not intend to stop at State line ditch tank, and were running at a high rate of speed. All the train men examined claimed the night was foggy and that danger signals could not be seen until they were right up on them.

THE MARRIAGE OFF.

Miss Mollie Garfield Breaks Her Engagement With J. Stanley Brown.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

CLEVELAND, O., October 12.—It was rumored both in New York and in this city that the real cause of the postponement of Miss Mollie Garfield's marriage is that Mrs. Garfield is herself engaged to marry a wealthy Western man, and that mother and daughter are to be married the same day, both going to Paris to purchase their trouseaus. Mrs. Garfield and family have been living at Mentor, O., for some time past, but her intimate friends in this city positively deny that there is the slightest foundation to the rumor that she is to marry a rich Western land-owner or anyone else. She has been living quietly and receiving little company.

An intimate friend of the late Gen. Garfield, and since his death of Mrs. Garfield and the family, said to your correspondent with reference to the matter: "There is probably no further use in attempting to conceal the true reason for the sudden departure of Mrs. Garfield and daughter, Mollie, for Europe. The rumors of Mrs. Garfield's marriage engagement are absurd. She accompanied Gen. Garfield to Europe at one time when he was ill and was herself violently sick during the entire trip over. Consequently it can readily be seen that it would take something more important than the illness of her niece, Miss May Mason of this city, as has been stated in the papers to cause her to take the trip at this time. The real reason is a rupture which has occurred between Miss Mollie and J. Stanley Brown, the young man who expected to become her husband this month. Mr. Brown was Gen. Garfield's private secretary. He wears a ruffled shirt front and makes a presentable appearance, but appears to have no particular prospects and not a great deal of money. Miss Mollie herself recently denied to a friend that she was engaged to Mr. Brown. At any rate, it is safe to say that the wedding is entirely off. As the wedding has long been looked forward to as a certainty by friends of the family, the trip was made to escape the embarrassment of the situation."

In regard to the rumors of her own marriage, Mrs. Garfield was heard to remark that the only thing that pained her was that the public should even imagine that she could so soon prove false to Gen. Garfield's memory.

CHICAGO'S GAS WAR.

The Company Files Its Answers to the Injunction Proceedings.

CHICAGO, Ill., October 12.—The Chicago Gaslight and Coke Company filed in the Circuit Court yesterday its answer to the bill of J. Edward Addicks, a stockholder, to restrain the issue of $10,000,000 of bonds by the company. The affidavits of President Forstall and John B. Cohrs are filed with the answer, substantiating the allegations of that document. Mr. Forstall denies that he ever made the statement that $442,000 would be sufficient to put the gas plant in order. He also denies the statement of Frederick P. Addicks that it was common talk that the $10,000,000 mortgage was to be executed and recorded as soon as the bonds could be properly engraved.

Addicks' motion for an injunction will be heard this morning.

LOCAL OPTION.

State Senator Farris Discusses Bland and Temperance.

Senator J. W. Farris, of Laclede County was at the Laclede to-day. He and Ben Deering were holding forth to a number of residents of that part of the State, who clustered around to hear the latest about local option. More strictly speaking, Deering was doing the holding forth. Nobody would deny that who knows Deering and his hostility in speech on the subject of temperance. Laclede County will vote on local option Monday, and each one in the party agreed with the spokesman that it was bound to go for option.

"She can't help it, boys; no more saloons in ours," were among the punctuations of Deering's remarks. While he kept the company interested in his opinions and in the contemplation of his sleek exterior, which indicated personally a very successful campaigning season, a reporter for the POST-DISPATCH tackled the Senator. Coming from the home of Dick Bland he was pretty well posted on Silver Dick's prospects.

"Will you trot him out for Governor?"

"No. Bland will not go in the race for Governor."

"But the people in his section are strongly in favor of him, are they not?"

"Yes, but they are afraid of taking him out of the race for Congress. He would be doubtful anyway for Governor. You can say that Bland will not under any circumstances run for Governor. That's settled."

"How's local option?"

"Booming. One by one the counties are rolling in their majorities. In the few counties where it has been defeated, it was done by political schemers. For instance in Andrews County, which is Republican, local option was badly defeated. Why? Simply because the Republicans wanted to force the Democrats to put up constitutional prohibition. Then they could play their hands."

"What is the prospect of the Woods law being declared unconstitutional?"

"The chance is about even. The point against it is that it is unconstitutional in that it delegates law-making powers to the people."

"Would prohibition carry in the State?"

"Yes, I think it would."

This opinion was not shared in by Deering, who said he did not think prohibition would carry now. "But when the time comes for voting on it," said Ben, "it will get there."

FOREST FIRES.

Great Damage in the Vicinity of 'Frisco—A Ship on Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 12.—For the past four days forest fires have been raging in Sonoma, Alameda, San Mateo and Santa Cruz Counties, all in the vicinity of the Bay of San Francisco. Reports from various towns in these counties report the fire raging fiercer than ever. In Alameda thirteen miles have been swept clean. Several fine farms have been completely consumed. The ground is covered with carcasses of all kinds of dead animals. In San Mateo several bridges and shingle-mills have been leveled to the ground; in Santa Cruz two box-mills have been destroyed. The fire has swept valuable farms out of existence and thousands of cords of wood have been consumed. From Sonoma comes the worst report. The flames have traveled two miles in the past twenty-four hours and devastated everything in their path. Many families have been made homeless. Miles upon miles of timber and vineyards have been destroyed. Hundreds of men are out fighting the fire in the counties. The loss will be immense.

A Ship On Fire.

SAVANNAH, Ga., October 12.—At 10 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the cargo of the British steamship, Hugh Lender, loading for Liverpool, and is burning fiercely. The vessel has 4,000 bales of cotton on board.

CAUGHT IN THE CORRIDOR.

A Man Named Perry Taken in To-Day on a Serious Charge.

A man named Perry was arrested in the Olive street corridor of the Post-office this morning by Post-office Inspectors Harris and Pulsifer for circulating obscene literature. They have been on his track for about two months and up to to-day had been unable to catch up with him. He had a box at the Post-office and the clerks were instructed to watch for him. When he called for his mail to-day he was pointed out to the inspectors, who nabbed him. He is about 35 years of age and a very tough-looking citizen, without any fixed place of residence. His case is set for the 22d of this month.

Messenger Owen Still Held.

The local officials of the Pacific Express Company are very reticent about the case of Messenger Owen, who is still in charge of the company's detectives at Chicago, notwithstanding the statements sent out by General Manager Morseman to the effect that all the money supposed to have been stolen from the Iron Mountain car at Texarkana had been accounted for. The criminal proceedings suspended and everything is waiting on the action of the officials in Chicago.

Carondelet Jottings.

The W. C. T. U. gave a very pleasant entertainment last evening at Temperance Hall. The affair was witnessed by a large gathering of people.

Perry Bouser, colored, 17 years of age, residing at 7810 Vulcan street, is reported by the police as sick and in destitute circumstances. He was sent to the City Hospital.

J. J. Ehrod, a grocer on Broadway, was thrown out of his wagon about 7 o'clock last evening while rounding the corner of Broadway and Bowen. His personal injuries were slight, but he mourns the loss of over $25 in groceries.

WILL REMAIN A MYSTERY

THE MURDER OF JOHN MURDOCK ON THE RIVER BANK.

Louis A. Amsden, Alias L. A. Osborne, Accused of the Crime, Discharged This Morning—His Wife's Testimony Inadmissible—Story of the Killing and of the Circumstances Surrounding It.

A murder case was nolle prosequied in the Criminal Court this morning. It was the case of Louis A. Amsden, alias L. A. Osborne, charged with killing John Murdock. This was the mysterious murder which occurred in the swamps south of the River des Peres and just inside the city limits near the bank of the Mississippi. At 12:30 a. m., on the 17th of last May, Murdock was shot and killed while asleep in his tent. The shot had been heard by several parties, but no attention was paid to it, two officers who heark it supposing it was some hunting party firing at game. It was not until after daybread that Amsden walked to Carondelet and notified the police of the murder. As his statement of the killing was rather vague he was placed under arrest. Murdock was found in his tent stretched out on his cot, and had evidently been shot while asleep. Death must have been instantaneous, and he probably passed from sleep into it without ever awakening to learn the cause. Murdock was a man upwards of 50 years of age, and for five or six years had been living in Jefferson County, where he worked as a farm hand. He was a quiet, peaceable old fellow, who went on his way without ever making an enemy. A year ago, Amsden came to Jefferson County with his wife. She took sick and during her illness Murdock was very kind to her and her husband. He did all in his power for the young couple, and his meager earnings were all given toward the support of them. Detah finally carried away the young wife, and she was given a modest burial. Amsden appeared to never forget the kindness of the old man, and from that time on they were constantly together. Amsden was and lived pretty much to himself aside from his association with Murdock. People thought it only a peculiarity, however, and paid little attention to it. To be sure he was not as popular as old man Murdock, but while he had some enemies no one knew anything against his character.

Time worn on and Amsden remarried. This time he married the daughter of a farmer in Jefferson County. A short time before the murder he and his wife started up the river on a flatboat, Murdock accompanying them. They reached the point where the shooting occurred some days before the killing, and the old man procured work. He slept in a tent on the river bank, while Amsden and his wife slept on the flatboat. Murdock turned his earnings over to the young couple and kept all three in food. What trouble ever occurred between Amsden and Murdock was never clearly developed, though Amsden's wife said that they had quarreled. Amsden denied that they had and alleged that he was awakened in the night or morning of the murder by the firing of shots. He went out on the boat with his gun and saw some men running away in the dark. He knew they had attacked his friend, but he feared to venture off the boat lest he should also be shot. He remained up till morning when he visited Murdock's tent and saw that the old man was dead. Then he walked to Carondelet and informed the police.

A REVOLVER

from which the fatal shot was supposed to have been fired was found some distance from the tent, and although Amsden denied all knowledge of the weapon, several witnesses afterward identified it as a revolver very similar to one Amsden had owned. It gave evidence of having been discharged. At first his wife stated that he was innocent of the killing, but when she learned that he had been known elsewhere by the name of L. A. Osborne, and was supposed to have another wife living, she stated that she believed he had killed Murdock. She had not seen him fire the shot, but just after it had been fired saw him standing on the boat with a weapon in his hand, he having left her side in the bed. Although several of Amsden's statements were knocked out by other witnesses' testimony and discoveries of various kinds afterward made, he clung to his original story and swore to it at the inquest.

HIS WIFE'S STATEMENT of the affair was not clear, but she alleged that she had told her first story at his instance, he telling her that he had not killed Murdock, but that if she did not tell the story he wanted her to they would both get into trouble.

About the only testimony against Amsden outside of his wife's statement was of a negative character. It did not fasten the murder on him, but showed that his story of the killing was false in some particulars at least and that he had been lying. His wife could not be used against him as a witness, the law not permitting a wife to testify against a husband in any case except an assault upon herself or a case of abandonment. This deprived the State of the only testimony upon which they could possibly hope for a conviction, and as there was no other witness to the killing there was no chance for a conviction. Even if the wife could have testified it is doubtful if a conviction could be secured, as she was very uncertain in her statements, and her testimony could easily have been broken down in cross-examination.

This morning Circuit-Attorney Clover had a talk with Chief of Police Huebler, and finding that the latter had no new evidence and no hopes of getting any, entered a nolle prosequi in the case. Amsden was then brought up and released, and left the building with his attorney, Jeff D. Storts. He claimed he was innocent and said he intended remaining in St. Louis. Although he has a slight jail pallor, Amsden looks much better than when first arrested.

MINING NEWS.

Stocks Dull—West Granite Strike—The Bi-Metallic Consolidation.

Mining stocks have been very dull for some time. Even the wind up of the fall festivities has not brought about a revival. Almost everything is weaker. Hope sold to-day at $6.40 and later at $6.25. Small Hopes was offered at $7. Granite Mountain was bid only $53, which is weaker than it has been for some days. Yavapai was offered at 40 cents early, and later was 40 cents bid. West Granite was bid 70 cents and offered at 72½ cents. Dinero was offered at 40 cents, and Peacock at 15 cents. Adams was bid $2.35.

WEST GRANITE NEWS.

There was no news from the West Granite strike to-day. The sensational telegrams from the mine yesterday morning were not confirmed last evening. Several brokers telegraphed early yesterday morning for news of the strike but at 3 o'clock this afternoon none of them had received any news and Matthews & Whittaker, who had the original telegram concerning the strike had received no confirmation of it. At 3:05 Wernse & Dieckman received a telegram from J. K. Pardee, saying: "Have the vein. Still cross-cutting. Ore yet below grade."

THE BI-METALLIC.

A letter from the Bi Metallic received on Monday confirmed the news of the strike made last week. The whole face of the ore is 8 feet, running from 200 to 400 ounces to the ton. The north wall has probably been reached. A number of extra men have been put at work.

THE GRANITE CONSOLIDATION.

The Granite-Bi-Metallic consolidation is still a fertile topic of conversation on the street. A gentleman thoroughly posted in the affairs of both companies said to-day that the Granite Mountain would never consent to a consolidation on a basis of 400,000 shares in 600,000. The Granite would be willing to issue 100,000 shares for the Bi-Metallic property, but not 200,000. An arrangement has been made by which No. 6 tunnel, running from the bottom of Ruby shaft, will be extended through the Bi-Metallic ground to the surface.

HOPE SHIPMENT.

A telegram from the Hope to-day announced the shipment for one and a half weeks as six bars—9,601 ounces silver.

BANKERS' IN COUNCIL.

Annual Convention of the American Association at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., October 12.—The annual meeting of the American Bankers' Association commenced at the Grand Opera-house this morning. The building, which has been but recently opened, presented a beautiful appearance, the potted plants which were displayed in the handsome entrance and on the stage adding to, and not detracting from, the decorations of the auditorium. When the meeting was colled to order at 10:30 o'clock some two hundred representatives of the leading financial institutions of the country were present, while the seats apart for spectators were well filled, quite a large number of the audience being ladies. After Chairman Logan C. Murray of New York had called the association to order, Right Rev. Courtlandt Whitehead, Episcopal Bishop of the diocese of Pittsburg, invoked divine blessing on the proceedings of the association, after which Hon. Daniel Agnew, ex-Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, made an address of welcome.

In opening he referred to the features of historic interest which cluster around Pittsburg, and gave some personal reminiscences of the time when Pittsburg embraced an area of a few blocks, and Allegheny, the thriving city of over 100,000 inhabitants, consisted of not more than a dozen houses. He then branched out on the wonderful stride which Pittsburg and vicinity have made in the way of manufactures, in the development of material resources, and to the immense capital which has been invested. In the territory contributory to Pittsburg, in the item of coal, over fifteen millions of bushels have been mined during the past year, but there is a reserve computed at sixteen billion tons. The natural gas supply is drawn from an are of 210,000 acres, from which 500,000,000 cubic feet are drawn daily. The total capital invested in the production and supply of natural gas is estimated at $25,000,000, and the net profit is 10 per cent. The glass product is 250,000 feet per month, and over $3,000,000 is invested in the manufacture of plate-glass alone. Reference was also made to the commerce of the city, the tonnage of which exceeds the largest seaport cities. He also referred to the fact that the imports of Pittsburg exceeded one-sixth of the entire imports of the country.

In concluding he claimed that Pittsburg and Allegheny are the largest freight producing districts in the United States, two mills alone furnishing a larger tonnage than the entire cotton crop of the United States. The statements of the speaker were fortified by figures giving details of the different industries.

PRESIDENT MURRAY'S ADDRESS.

At the conclusion of Judge Agnew's remarks Logan C. Murray, President of the association, delivered his annual address. This was followed by the reading of the reports of the officers. The Secretary's report showed a gratifying increase in membership, especially in the South and West. Last year the total membership was 1,402, while this year it is 1,682. The increase would have been larger but for certain monetary questions, which caused some to withhold their influence. A reaction had set in, however, and it was the general opinion that the outlook was exceedingly bright. The influence of the association was steadily increasing. During the year $1,000 had been spent in prosecuting a number of the most dangerous forgers and criminals in the country.

The Treasurer's report was as follows: Balance on hand last year, $1,591.98; receipts from subscriptions, $13,126.50; total receipts to October 1, 1887, $14,675; disbursement, $13,398.33; balance, $1,320.15.

A committee of five was then appointed to suggest nominations for officers for the ensuing year. Pending their report, John J. Knox, ex-Comptroller of the United States Treasury, delivered an address on the surplus of the public debt.

H. M. Kingman of Chicago then presented a paper on commercial paper and its importance as a factor in the discount account of banks.

BEFORE JUDGE NOONAN.

A Number of Interesting Cases Disposed of This Morning.

Another very large docket was disposed of to-day by Judge Noonan in the Court of Criminal Correction.

John Bonner and Peter Tiffany had a preliminary hearing on a charge of stealing $50 from Jesse Hall, and were held for the Grand-jury in $800 bond each. They are two ex-convicts, and are accused of taking the money from Hall while he was drunk on the night of September 24, and in the saloon of James Kewick, 1120 North Sixteenth street.

Fred Miller was tried on a charge of petit larceny, but the testimony showed it to be a case of burglary and larceny, and Judge Noonan held him for the latter offence in $1,000 bond. Miller is alleged to have broken into Dora Schlofke's place, 117 South Third street, and stolen two coats and two quilts, all valued at $20.

Herman Gerhardt was held in $500 bond to answer to a charge of assaulting to kill Thos. Noonan.

Harvey Scott was given a rather severe dose of justice. On the 9th of September, he and Henry Thoel jumped in the buggy of Tim Kiely, which was standing on the street, and drove the horse about the city until he was ready to drop. They would probably have been driving yet had they not collided with a lamp-post about 2 a. m., and demolished the buggy, which was valued at $350. Thoel was never captured, but Scott was arrested and was this morning tried for cruelty to animals and also for the malicious destruction of personal property. He was given nine months in the Work-house on the first offense and four months in the same institution for the other.

William Scott was convicted of stealing a watch and chain, valued at $25, from William Ruby and was given a year in the Work-house.

Thomas Nagle and John Nagle, two brothers and tough men, entered James Sweeney's saloon, 3701 Kossuth avenue, on September 4, and slashed Sweeney across the face with a knife. They were each sentenced to six months in the Work-house and to pay fines of $100 each by Judge Noonan to-day.

Fred A. Roth and Andy Johnson were tried on a charge of stealing nine pool balls valued at $10 from George Conrades of 3805 Easton avenue. The testimony showed that they entered the saloon of Conrades and played a game of pool. Every time Roth made a shot he stuck the ball in his pocket and kept it. Roth was fined $25, and Johnson discharged.

William Clark was fined $1 and costs for assaulting Ignatz Gabuss.

Louis Smith pleaded guilty to obtaining goods under false pretenses and was sentenced to fifteen days in jail. He is the man who purchased a beaded pin-cushion from the Indian, Joseph Alanonni, and tendered him a Confederate bill in payment.

Mrs. Phelan, an old woman, was tried for assault and battery and discharged, the Court considering her insane and irresponsible for her acts.

Mike Cavanaugh, charged with highway robbery, and Thomas Fortune, assault to kill, had examinations and were discharged, and the cases of Martin Collins, cruelty to animals, and Mathew Fay, petit larceny, were dismissed.

IS IT TILLMAN?

Body of the Drowned Man Taken From the River To-Day.

The body of a white male floater, supposed to be that of C. H. Tillman, who was drowned last Friday, was found by Officer O'Gara about 12 o'clock to-day in the river at the foot of Bowen street. The Coroner was notified.

Mr. Tillman was a member of one of the oldest familes in the city. He was a cousin of the Chouteaus and other prominent people. He went fishing Friday evening, and as he did not return, and as his coat was found on the bank of the Meramec River, it was suggested that he had fallen into the river.

MR. GARRETT RESIGNS THE PRESIDENCY OF THE B. & O. RAILROAD.

Monthly Meeting of the Directors—Burns to Act as President—Sale of the Telegraph Plant Ratified—Judge Gresham's Wabash Order—Want a New Rate—Railroad News.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

BALTIMORE, Md., October 12.—The sale of the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph will be ratified to-day at the meeting of the directors. President Garrett was absent from the meeting yesterday, not because he was sick, but because he is still sore about the sale of the lines to Jay Gould. At least this is the way his closest friend puts it. The same gentleman said: "Mr. Garrett, on his return to this city, got into a rage with President Burns for having consummated the sale while he (Garrett) was abroad. Mr. Garrett would like to interfere with the sale if anything could be gained, but as all his efforts have proved futile, he is determined to let everything take its course. He is under the impression that he could have obtained $6,000,000 for the franchise if the sale had been left to him. In speaking of the proposed sale of the sleeping car system he said he did not think it would be sold, because it was a paying institution. Last year the profits amounted to $700,000 and he did not see any sense in throwing this away, when this amount could be doubled by reducing the price of parlor and sleeping accommodations. In conclusion, he said he thought a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent would be declared to-day."

Garrett Resigns.

BALTIMORE, Md., October 12.—The monthly meeting of the directors of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company was held to-day. The first business was a letter from Robert Garrett, resigning the presidency of the company. Complimentary remarks to Mr. Garrett were made by Judge Dobbin on behalf of the Johns Hopkins University and by Mr. J. M. Kennywhite on the part of the city of Baltimore, after which the resignation was accepted. The contract for the transfer of the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph to the Western Union Company was approved without dissent. A resolution was adopted that no dividend be declared from the earnings of the main stem for the past six months, and declaring a dividend of 5 per cent from the earnings of the Washington branch. The arrangements in progress with the syndicate to relieve the road of the indebtedness were presented and entirely approved, so far as they progressed. All legal papers are in preparation, and it is expected they will be laid before the Board at the annual meeting in November. Mr. Robert Garrett was elected a director in the company in place of John Spear Nicholas, deceased.

The announcement on the street that no dividend on the main stem had been passed created considerable consternation, and immediately after forty-five shares of the stock sold at 115. It was confidently expected last night that a dividend of three or four per cent on the main stem would be declared.

The Wabash Coupons.

CHICAGO, Ill., October 12.—Judge Gresham yesterday made an order for the payment of the interest coupons on the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific Railway east of the Mississippi River. The order was made on the petition of Frederick N. Lawrence and others, as a committee of the first mortgage bondholders. On a stipulation by the Purchasing Committee, the receiver, Gen. McNulta, is ordered, out of the moneys now in his hands as surplus earnings of the entire property, to pay the unpaid coupons which matured July 1, 1885, and prior thereto, on the bonds secured by the Chicago Division mortgage, made by the Wabash July 1, 1880. The receiver is also ordered to pay the unpaid coupons which matured June 1, 1885, and prior on the bonds secured by the first mortgage of the Hannibal & Naples Railroad Company, with interest on the coupons which matured June 1, 1885. The decree further directs him to pay out of the surplus earnings past due coupons, with interest on bonds secured by the first mortgage, and on the funded debt bonds secured by pledge of coupons from bonds secured by the first mortgages made by the Toledo & Illinois Railroad Company, the Lake Erie, Wabash & St. Louis Railroad Company, the Great Western Railroad Company of 1859, the Decatur & East St. Louis, the Illinois & Southern Iowa, the Quincy & Toledo and the Hannibal & Naples roads and also to pay past due coupons with interest on bonds received by the Chicago division mortgage. Further, the receiver shall also pay interest on the scrip certificates issued by the Wabash in exchange for unpaid coupons belonging to any of the first mortgage bonds, enumerated above, on which the Receiver shall be paying coupons, such payments to be made to the parties presenting the scrip certificates at the office of the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York.

Want a New Rate.

CHICAGO, Ill., October 12.—The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Company yesterday filed notice with Chairman J. N. Abbott of the Western States Passenger Association that it desired to make a rate of $40 for 2,000-mile tickets, and would submit the matter to a vote of the Association roads, or at a meeting to be called for the purpose of considering it. The action of the Rock Island is the sequence of a telegram received from the general manager of the Minnesota & Northwestern stating its intention to withdraw from the organization January 1.

IN THE CORN PALACE.

THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY MAKE A BRIEF STOP IN SIOUX CITY.

The Novel Structure Excites the Admiration of the Distinguished Visitors—Great Enthusiasm Along the Road—Bonfires and Booming Cannon—The Trip to Omaha—A Cordial Reception.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Io., October 12.—The southward flight of the Presidential party began at Minneapolis at 10 minutes past 8 last evening. The two ladies of the party retired early, but the President and the male members of his escort sat for a couple of hours smoking their cigars and comparing experiences. The President was frequently summoned to the platform during the evening to receive the greetings of the country people, who seemed to be wide awake all along the line. At Cheska, a dozen tar barrels were burning, an artillery salute was fired, and as the train moved slowly past, a big fire balloon in national colors was sent aloft. At Carver the people were out in force with a brass band, and the place was illuminated by Chinese lanterns. At Le Sueur there was a yet more elaborate illumination and a serenade. The train made no stops, but the President appeared wherever there was a crowd and courteously acknowledged its salutes. An army of railroad men was on patrol duty along the track, and huge bonfires were burning every half-mile on the way. The sun was just streaking the eastern sky with ribbons of scarlet and pink, when all hands were called this morning to prepare for the affair at Sioux City. A brief half-hour was allowed for the toilets and coffee was served before the place was reached. The train was stopped outside the town limits to take on board Mayor Clelland, who, without formality, welcomed the President and his friends, and when the station was reached, just at sunrise, carriages and a reception committee were found in waiting, as were the military, the brass bands and the people.

A RAPID DRIVE

of five minutes brought the visitors to the corn palace, whose turrets were at the moment taking their early bath of golden sunlight. The corn festival ended in fact last week, but everything had been kept in place waiting the President's visit, and all the attendants were on hand to do the honors of the occasion. Courteous committeemen escorted each member of the party and pointed the curiosities out. A more entertaining array of novelties has not met the gaze of the President since his trip began. Mrs. Cleveland was delighted with everything she saw and turned again and again to examine more closely some unique fabrication of cornstalks, husks, ears or kernels, to which her escort called her attention. The wax maiden with hair of cornsilk and robe of satin husks, climbing a winding-stair of golden ears; the spider of tiny carrots lying in wait in his web of corn fibers; the map of the Union, made of kernels, each State having its especial color; the huge national flag, and the shields, eagles, crescents, crosses and emblems of various nations; the mottoes, etc., all made of the unshelled ears, were noted and admired in turn, and then the big marvel of a building, whose sole material, except its bare skeleton, was the product of the cornfield, was explained in detail, and its conception, history and construction described by the party's conductors and admired by the guests. From the palace the visitors were conducted through the town, which seemed to be constructed in great part of corn products. The mammoth triumphal arch still spanned the chief thoroughfare. The signs of sections of corn ears and the awnings, verandas and in some cases entire fronts of corn topped out with squashes and pumpkins, were as their architects had planned and made them. The show furnished the chief subject of conversation during the feornoon's ride to Omaha, where new novelties claimed attention.

IN OMAHA.

Cordial Welcome of the President and Mrs. Cleveland.

OMAHA, Neb., October 12.—The President's ride down the Missouri Valley from Sioux City, through the endless stretches of waving corn, showed him the significance of the Sioux City exhibition. At Council Bluffs Senator Manderson, Congressman McShane and a committee of gentlemen from Omaha boarded the train and welcomed the President to "God's Country," which they claimed lay just beyond the river. At the station in Omaha Senator Paddock, Congressman Dorsey and the remaining members of the reception committee, composed of prominent residents and the municipal authorities, welcomed the city's guests. The carriage to which the President and his wife were escorted was one mass of roses, wreaths of which also bedecked the horses. A multitude of many thousands cheered the party as it made its appearance, and cheers and salutes were its accompaniments throughout the city. The streets had been hastily and richly adorned with streamers and devices in gay colors, and banners bearing "Welcome to the President," couched in every form of patriotic or poetic phrases, spanned the way. The Second Regiment of United States Infantry, the Knights of Pythias, in uniform, from all parts of the State and several political and social organizations, were drawn up in line along the street sides, each with its brass band and colors. One of the organizations which attracted especial attention of the President was the company of full blood Indian youths from the Genoa Industrial School with an Indian band of music.

The indications for twenty-four hours commencing at 3 p. m. to-day for Missouri are: Warmer, fair weather; light to fresh, southerly winds.

THE town of Belvidere, N. J., has a fully developed ghost. Here is a chance for the bloody shirt gang to engage a new campaign speaker.

THE Baltimore convict politicians are still angry because they have been unexpectedly illuminated. It is light, not libel, that they fear.

THE best interests of the Democratic party demand that the next national convention shall be held in the West, and in the city of St. Louis.

FOR the benefit of the bloody shirt monomaniacs, it should be stated that the alleged "wool frauds" have no reference to the "suppressed negro vote."

THE sentence "I bring peace," which the Italian Prime Minister used on his recent return to Rome, is thought to have been plagiarized from BISMARCK.

THE Bulgarian elections all went in favor of Prince FERDINAND. The Prince not only sticks to his office, but he is learning how to whoop up the boys on election day.

SCIENCE now asserts that in past ages monster animals existed in Alaska, but science does not assert that there ever was anything in that region as monstrous as the Alaska seal monopoly.

THE opponents of HENRY GEORGE are now republishing the complimentary things which he wrote about Socialism in "Progress and Poverty." This looks like taking a mean advantage of a fellow.

THE Irish situation is ruining many of the landlords, whose rents have been effectually cut off. This turn of affairs should induce the landlords to demand home rule as the only thing that promises any semblance of relief.

THE President deserves credit for keeping up a very just equilibrium in bestowing compliments on St. Paul and Minneapolis. It was a delicate task, and Mr. CLEVELAND was lucky in finishing it without serious detriment to his supposed boom.

PROHIBITION continues its conquering march through the Missouri counties, but it will require a great deal of it to blanch the noses of the Missouri Colonels. Where there is a will there is a way, and where there is a thirst, there is apt to be something to slake it.

THE small-fry expositions which the President is compelled to look at on his Western trip give him a chance to perceive and appreciate the pre-eminence of the great St. Louis Exposition, which is so far ahead of all others that there is no second in the race.

SENATOR EVARTS in addressing a Republican gathering recently made this statement: "Our principles are not concealed and are not uncertain in expression." The quickest way to make said principles both concealed and uncertain in expression would be to get Senator EVARTS to elucidate them.

IT is claimed that the Dakota delegation which went to St. Paul to join in the reception of the President received a snub from the reception committee as pronounced as the one administered to the Iroquois Club by the Hendricks Association. But it may not be such a serious matter to snub the residents of a Territory.

MR. MURAT HALSTEAD says that Mr. BLAINE does not want the office of President, and that if he had his choice he would retire into private life. The belief is very general that Mr. BLAINE is now in private life, and he can certainly remain in it if he wishes, while it is not at all certain that he could wriggle out of it if he should try. The statement that Mr. BLAINE does not want to be President is probably intended for the feeble-minded.

ILLINOIS AND MICHIGAN CANAL.

The New York Democrats have committed themselves to the policy of enlarging the capacity of the Erie Canal at the expense of the State and without calling on the United States for aid. That canal has been of such incalculable benefit to the commerce of the great West that, tested by its general utility and the value thereof to many States, it has been far more useful as a national highway than most of the rivers upon which Congress has lavished the money of the United States. If it had been made at the expense of the United States, there would be no difficulty in proving now that the expenditure contributed more to the general welfare than any equal expenditure by the general Government for the improvement of our internal communications.

But in exercising its power "to provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States" Congress has from the beginning wisely confined its appropriations to rivers and harbors and refused to go into the construction of canals wholly within a State or to treat any artificial highway wholly within a State as an interstate highway. The wisdom of drawing the line thus is conclusively established by the Erie Canal. No matter how much that great work has been worth to other States and to the country at large, it has repaid its cost many times over to the great State of New York, and was the best investment she ever made for herself.

On the other hand the unreasonableness of calling on Congress to make canals within States is exemplified in the demand that the United States shall invest about $4,000,000 in the construction of a forty-mile canal for steamboats between Joliet and Chicago. Because such a canal would be worth to her more than its cost, both as a navigable waterway and as a solution of her drainage problem, Chicago proposed to undertake the work herself. But the bill authorizing her to do so was slaughtered by the same Illinois Legislature which called on Congress to undertake that very same work as a much needed connection and extension of two great interstate waterways!

No matter how much such a canal would strengthen the defenses of the country in time of war or facilitate the commerce of other States, we may well ask with the Chicago Tribune, "Why "should the general Government pay for "such a canal when the city of Chicago, "for its own drainage purposes, would, if "permitted, be glad to build just such a "canal as the uses of commerce demand "and make it available for navigation, the "same as if it were for that purpose only?"

THE UNION DEPOT.

In England they have a Railroad Commission with judicial powers which can hold an inquest on any railroad station or depot that is complained of, and have it reconstructed so as to meet the requirements of business and to afford due comfort and safety to the traveling public. Any such commission in this State would but echo the voice of every traveler and every citizen of St. Louis in pronouncing the St. Louis Union Depot an intolerable and dangerous public nuisance. In space, design and construction, and in means of ingress and egress it is wholly unfittted for the use to which it is put, and to the struggling masses of traveling men, women and children who have to pass through the ordeal of its discomforts and perils it is a place of torture. The Missouri Railroad Commissioners have the power to condemn railroad bridges, tracks and other equipments as unsafe, and they should be appealed to to exert all their powers and exhaust all the processes of law against this St. Louis Depot. It is notorious over the whole Union as a scandal to the city and the State, and every passer-by who sees it shrewdly concludes that the influences by which and the purposes for which it is maintained in the heart of this great city are alike scandalous.

WE would not revive the old Scottish law of presumptive murder under which EFFIE DEANS was condemned to death, but when a railroad company tries to suppress the news of an awful train collision tragedy and to prevent the newspapers from ascertaining the true facts in the case, the fair presumption is that the company and its officers are trying to conceal something like wholesale murder. Such concealment is next thing to a confession of guilt, and conscious guilt is the only motive that can be ascribed to it. Even when the tragedy is the result of unavoidable accident, keeping the anxious friends of the passengers in suspense about their fate is a cruelty akin to crime.

THE productions of our country are not only taxed to pay dividends on watered railroad stocks, but on a large increase added to the actual cost of railroads by the operations of monopolies under a protective tariff. The farmer not only pays a tariff tax to the Government on every imported thing he buys, but he pays taxes to manufacturing monopolies on every protected domestic product which he buys. Our products that go abroad for a market, have to carry all these taxes in their competition with "foreign pauper labor" in free trade markets. They have to pay, also, higher rates of ocean transportation than would be the case if our tariff did not deprive the ships of back loads to our shores by excluding the importation of a vast amount of valuable raw material needed by our manufacturers. A part of the present cost of shipping our wheat, cotton and manufactured goods to foreign markets would be removed if the same ships could come back loaded with raw material now excluded by the tariff. The exclusion benefits a few monopolists at the expense of everybody else. Our manufacturing interests are crippled by it. Labor's wages are reduced and labor's taxes increased by it. The same tax system which compels the farmer to pay more for everything, compels him to take less for his grain.

AS THE St. Louis Champions swing round the circle of the great cities with the Detroits, carrying the fame of our city to every fireside in the United States, they will be accompanied by a member of the POST-DISPATCH's champion staff of reporters, and all the incidents of this memorable contest from day to day will be fully and graphically told to our readers by telegraph. No other contest since the war has excited so much interest, and the people's favorite paper will see that they get the news.

"Trust" Robbery.

From the Chicago Tribune.

A slight change of base has been made, "trust" bonds taking the place of "watered" stock. This latter form of public robbery is worse and more dangerous than the earlier one. The remedy is the same now as then. Legislation, State and national, must come to the rescue, and the administration of justice be entrusted only to those who are known to be untainted with the black vomit of "trust" fraud. This is the live issue of our latter-day politics. The joining of it has been delayed too long already.

From time immemorial until a comparatively recent date commerce was divided into two classes—the merchant marine and the pirates. At one time, not very long ago, either, piracy seemed to have the advantage. At last public sentiment was thoroughly aroused, and as if by magic piracy was driven from the seas. Since that time honest enterprise and legitimate investment have been unmolested by the corsair. In this country, however it may be in foreign lands, every sea of enterprise and investment is infested with pirates. The black flag flaunts defiantly in every port. Our business world is to-day divided into two clearly defined classes—the accumulators of honestly gotten wealth and the spoilers who prey upon that wealth under color of law. Very little is to be feared from burglars, pickpockets, forgers, sneak-thieves and the like who lay themselves liable to the criminal law by their operations. Where they steal a few pennies the land pirates grab millions, helped by the cunning of unscrupulous lawyers to evade the criminal law as it now stands. It is by the intelligent, careful and persistent use of the ballot that the community must protect itself from the Capt. Kidds of the period.

The Stay in Sharp's Case.

From the New York WORLD.

The obstructions that have been thrown in the way of justice in this case are mischievous and deplorable. They impress upon the public mind a conviction that the laws are unequal, and that favors are extended to a rich criminal which cannot be secured by a poor one. In the administration of justice the power of money should be unknown. Yet what do we see? Jaehne, McQuade and O'Neil, the men bribed by Sharp, having no money, thrown into Sing Sing immediately after their conviction, no Judge Potter nor Judge Ruger being found to grant them a stay pending the decision of an appeal. Jacob Sharp, the man who bribed them, the originator of the crime, the chief offender, securing stay after stay of proceedings, even after his conviction and sentence have been affirmed by four such Judges as Van Brunt, Brady, Daniels and Bartlett of the Supreme Court—lawyers of more recognized ability, we may be permitted to say, than some who sit in the Court of Appeals.

Jacob Sharp committed the crime of which he has been found guilty in 1884. It has required almost superhuman efforts for three years to secure his indictment and trial. He has been fairly convicted and sentenced, and now, in the latter part of 1887, more than three years after the offense was consummated, a Judge is found ready to further obstruct justice and protect the prisoner against the penalty of the law. While there may be a technical legal justification for this action, no one can deny that it is a mischievous confirmation of the prevailing belief that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor.

Why Davis Compels Admiration.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Among Southern men whom I have met in New York, even where they have accepted the long view of things, and are thus subjected to the criticism of their old leader, I have found great admiration expressed for Jefferson Davis, not from the stand-point of his convictions and expressed doctrines of State sovereignty, but because of the courage and desperate bravery of his persistence in advocating his theories long after the whole country had cast them utterly aside. One man said to me: "This spectacle of Jefferson Davis, after having been manacled and thrown into prison, after having seen nearly every living associate return into harmony with the spirit of the times by tacitly acknowledging themselves to be wrong, himself standing up and returning blow for blow, calling Gen. Sherman to account as well as his brother, the Senator, when they made statements which he held to be false, and bravely asserting himself all the time to have been in the right, is certainly a remarkable one in history. He excoriates us who have submitted as bitterly as he strikes any Northern man whose hand is raised against him. He does it all with a courtesy and grace of manner and a renewal of vigor that calls for admiration, although not accompanied by approval."

A Republican Pledge.

From Resolutions adopted by the Republican State Convention of Nebraska.

The Republican party of Nebraska, while ever careful of property rights and holding no sympathy with those who would with the Communist divide or with the Anarchist destroy, reasserts its determination that the great railway corporations of this State, which hold relations of closest interest to the people, shall be the fairly paid servants of the State, and not its masters. The work of legislative control in the State and nation shall continue until all causes for complaint of exorbitant rates and unjust discrimination in favor of individuals or localities shall cease to exist. Assuming the responsibility which fairly belongs to it of having originated all legislation looking to railroad control and the creation of those tribunals or commissions which have been enabled to grapple with corporate power, the Republican party will see to it that by all needed enlargements of power these commissions, national and State, shall be armed for battle and for victory.

MORALITY SUFFERS.

LABOUCHERE'S CABLE BUDGET OF SOCIAL AND POLITICAL GOSSIP.

The Hughes-Hallett Scandal—Mr. Smith Blamed for Making His Discovery Public—The Press Clauses of the Coercion Act—Comments on the Whelehan Tragedy—The Times and Col. Sir West Ridgeway—Boshway, the Dacoit Chief.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, October 12.—Having alluded last week to the Hughes-Hallett incident, I have received enough letters to fill a whole number of Truth half a dozen times over. As I then said I blame Mr. Smith. Cases have occurred before of a relative being betrayed. The natural desire of that relative is in such cases to punish the betrayer. But if the matter be only known to him and to the girl, and if he be wise, and if he have her interests at heart, he will sacrifice this natural desire to the consideration that publicity must injure the girl more than the seducer. Mr. Smith was not even a relative of the young lady. He detected what was going on. On this he called up his servants and made the whole thing public. He had no right to do so. It certainly was not for him to cry aloud the discovery from the house-top. Why I disapprove of the matter being brought politically against the Colonel is that this would lead to a committee of Liberals perpetually investigating the conduct of every Conservative member in the House, and to a committee of Conservative members investigating the conduct of every Liberal member in order to find something against him. Every member would, therefore, be in the position of an elder in the Scotch Church, and would be perpetually called on to explain this or that action. The abuses consequent thereon would unquestionably outweigh the advantage of some particularly immoral member being occasionally spotted and forced to withdraw from public life. The inquiry system would be found to be so objectionable that there would be a strong reaction against it, and the cause of morality would itself suffer. I don't think that public opinion in England approves of the application of the Scotch kirk system, or that of the Puritan fathers in New England States to politics. On the contrary, it disapproves of any prying into the private life of public men. The relations of persons to each other who have arrived at what is called the age of discretion, must depend on their own discretion.

MERE WASTE OF PAPER AND INK.

One thing clear in political affairs is that the press clauses of the coercion act are mere waste of ink and paper. I very much doubt whether a good many of the old clauses will stand the test of judicial investigation by a judge who is a trained lawyer, secure in his place like Mr. O'Donnell, and not a military will-o'-the-wisp, or a promoted private from the Mounted Police, whose view with regard to every prisoner is the convenient one that he must be guilty or "he would not be there." That the Castle should be indignant at not being able to obtain a conviction in defiance of the law is not surprising; for this it has always taken care to do through its resident magistrates. What these worthies know of the law may be estimated by Capt. Seagraves' account of himself at the Mitchellstown inquest. The Captain stated that having failed to pass the examination necessary to obtain a commission in the army, he betook himself to South Africa, served as a private, then became a lieutenant in the Corps of Bushwhackers, and that on his return to England last summer he was appointed a resident magistrate in Ireland. As an evidence of his experience to deal with a crowd, he stated that he had frequently ordered charges of police at eviction cases and that he had given the order to charge in the following words: "Clear these dogs away," which I suppose is the Irish magisterial reading of the "Up guards and at them" of Waterloo.

THE WHELEHAN TRAGEDY.

So it turns out that Head Constable Whelehan had only himself and the Castle to look to for being shot. Informer Cullinan was, according to his own evidence, the agent provocateur. He was in communication with the police and receiving money from the Head Constable while he was conversant with the moonlighters. The police knew all about his contemplated felony, but preferred not to hinder him, in order, I presume, to score the outrage against its perpetrators. I am sorry for Head Constable Whelehan, but if justice be done the constabulary, who knew of the intentions, and who, instead of arresting the conspirators, paid money to their own tool to egg them on, ought to be punished for participation in the conspiracy.

THE TIMES AND RIDGEWAY.

According to the Times, Col. Sir West Ridgeway will, with his Indian experience, put fresh heart into the police and "dispel the notion that they will be surrendered as victims to appease an outcry founded on popular ignorance and party spirit." This means that if they will only shoot and baton regardless of law, Ridgeway and the Times will support them. Possibly he will, for I know nothing of the gentleman, but I would suggest to the police to consider that he will not always be master of the Castle, and that the abominable incitements to outrage in which the Times indulges will not always be approved of by the Executive. The constable who believes that home rule must come will do well to act on this conviction.

BOSHWAY.

So Boshway is really killed again. I really thought that this wily old Dacoit could not have survived his last execution, but I am truly pleased to see that my old friend met with no violent death in last week's papers. I make no doubt, however, that in company with Osman Digna, his rival in this line, he will soon again bob up or down serenely from somewhere.

A TOUCHING EPISODE.

A G. A. R. Post Presents Swords to a Confederate Veteran Camp.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

RICHMOND, Va., October 12.—The hall of the R. E. Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans was the scene last night of a most touching and pleasant episode. A delegation from Andrew Post of Boston, headed by Commander A. Dally, was in attendance and presented each of the ten officers of Lee Camp with a handsomely chased sword, bearing the following inscription:

"From John A. Andrew Post, No. 15, G. A. R., to Robert E. Lee, Confederate Veterans."

Commander Daily made the presentation speech, which was appropriately responded to by Commander Phillips. The visitors were banquetted.

Supporting Fred Grant.

NEW YORK, October 12.—The Herald says this morning, that even if New York should go Republican this fall, it would not mean that the Republicans could carry the State in the Presidential election next year. As if to prove its belief in its assertion, it comes out in support of Grant, the Republican candidate for Secretary of State, and says: "By all means vote for Col. Fred Grant, the Republican nominee for Secretary of State, the son of a worthy sire who was the Savior of the Union."

A RARE TREAT.

The Proprietor of the "World" Gives Gotham's Newsboys a Theater Party.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, October 12.—Perhaps there were one or two newsboys in this great town who did not go to the People's Theater last night. Anybody who saw there and was 3,247 happy youngsters who filled every nook and corner of the house, would be very apt to think that not more than that number of those who sell papers for a living had been left outside of the theater doors. The editor of the New York WORLD thought it would be a first-rate thing to invite all energetic youths who handle the best evening paper in the town for a cent, to a big theater party. So he chartered Mr. Miner's theater and bade all the boys go and see "Harbor Lights." As soon as the 3,247 boys had sold their last EVENING WORLDS and bolted their suppers they rushed for the People's Theater. At 7:30 o'clock they got there, not in couples, but in whole crowds at once. The Bowery was black with them. The whole street was snowed under with boys all armed with tickets of the regular kind. Manager Davis took a look out at the throng and wondered if the house would hold half of it. On ordinary evenings a solitary policeman stands around the lobby and keeps himself in order. Last night nine policemen stood manfully in front of the house, and playfully dusted the boys' jackets with springy rattans that made the lads jump around in a spry way. Before 8 o'clock three more blue-coats came around to help the other nine. The little fellows meant well, but the prospect of a seat in the swell seats of a "real teayter" and seeing "teayter blokies" do acts for their special benefit was too stimulating to let them keep still. The boys sang as they ran and mingled their songs with yells, that kept popping out every few seconds, of "three cheers for the EVENING WORLD,

AND THREE MORE FOR MR. PULITZER."

The parquet and orchestra circle, right up to the first row, were jammed with boys. No favors were shown and many of the best seats were filled with little bits of fellows. It was easy to see that the plush upholstered chairs were rich novelties to the boys. "Hullijee," said one as he bounced on his chair. "Hullijee, yer kin teeter on these benches, every one o' dem, by der lone." The boys paid more attention to the stage than any theater full of grown people you ever saw. Tier above tier the eager faces stretched away towards the roof, and everywhere was the same rapt gaze at the stage. The inventor of the chestnut "a sea of faces" would have recognized the full force of his words could he have seen the array. Every bit of action on the stage was faithfully mirrored in the great human looking-glass that stretched from the very footlights to the roof. The jolly crew of H. M. S. Britannic came rolling through the village streets and the boys grinned. The sailors kissed a girl apiece, and the boys grinned and chirped enthusiastically. One sailor tried to kiss a girl twice and was sternly rebuked by a chorus of "Rats," and

"OH CHEESE DERE."

Lieut. Kingsley proposed to pretty Dora Vane, and the boys aided him in pressing his suit with long drawn "Ah-h-h-h," that sprang from all over the house. 'Squire Moreland was refused by her not long afterwards, and a brown-haired boy in the front row said "Dat's biz. She won't be nobody's else wife but his, der lieutenant. Dat Squire's no good an' he can't hev her." When the Squire threatened Dora, four or five very chivalric boys in the gallery pelted all their marbles at him. It did not take the boys two minutes to fall in love with Sidney Howard who played Tom Dozier, the jolly quartermaster. They applauded him every time he came in sight. At the end of the first act Mr. Howard came before the curtain and recited some verses, which with the interruptions ran something like this:

"Good evening boys."

"Good evening" came back from 3,247 young throats.

Mr. Howard went on:

What do you think?
The boss just said to me,
Says he, "Go out and tell the boys
That this 'ere teater's free."
Says I, "Come off, that news is stale,
What are you giving me?"

"Rats! taffy! chestnuts! they give you the EVENING WORLD for a cent," came back the answer from the ever ready boys.

Mr. Howard resumed:

'Says I "The EVENING WORLD has said
That this 'ere teater's bought,
To give the boys who sell the WORLD
An evening full of sport.
"All right," says he, "just go ahead,
And tell them what you ought."

And so I tell you, boys, I do,
You're welcome here to-night,
And may you never be without
A friendly "Harbor Light;"
And may the MORNING or EVENING WORLD,
For you be always bright.

JUVENILE APPRECIATION.

When Mr. Howard finished the verses he called out: "Three cheers for the EVENING WORLD!" The boys joined heartily and gave three, and three more, and three after that, and then cheered and yelled and whistled and whooped, and altogether raised a din that would shame the Stock Exchange in its palmiest days. When it subsided a very small boy jumped up and said: "Hurrah for Mr. Pulitzer," and that started another cheering and shouting all over again. Between the acts the orchestra began playing a lot of Dave Braham's "Leather Patch" music, and 3247 pairs of lips puckered up and joined in helping the musician along. All in vain Director Holding tried to hurry along and shake them off; the whistlers were there to stay and stay they did until the very last bar of their favorite of airs. When poor Lina Nelson told her woes to Dora, a chorus of sympathizing sniffs arose from all over the house, and the tears glistened in thousands of young eyes.

"It kinder makes yer cry, don't it?" said a big 12-year old.

"Wah, dat's nothin'," said his neighbor, a midget who had seen the play before," dat's nothin' to wat's coming; wait to year see der big blokie with whiskers shoot der Squire."

There was no more sniffin' in that neighborhood after that. Lieut. Kinsley arrayed the wedding presents in his rough sailor fashion in Dora's home while she was away.

"Nothing slow about him," observed one of the youths, "he'll leave dem dere till his wife comes in, an' she'll take it all in an' be more mashed on 'im."

When the wicked Squire met his just deserts, every boy in the house was on his feet waving his hands and saying "served him right." When evil Nicholas Morel and got the cold shoulder from his former commander aboard the Britannic, the boys yelled and hissed him greatly. When Virtue spoke she was cheered, when Vice opened his lips he was hit in the neck with hisses and objurgations about "rats" delivered in a withering tone.

Every boy sat in his seat until the curtain fell on the last act. The spectacular business fairly set fire to the youngsters. Once more, at the end of the play, the boys cheered the EVENING WORLD and their benefactor and host of the evening. Then the army of little men poured out into the chilly street, pleased as they never had been pleased before, and firmly convinced that their favorite paper "is first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of its countrymen."

The circulation of the EVENING WORLD yesterday was 115,580, as against 111,410 the day before, the first day of publication.

"MOTHER" MANDLEBAUM.

The Notorious New York Fence Keeping a Store in Hamilton, Ontario.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

HAMILTON, Ontario, October 12.—Mother Mandlebaum has not been in Syracuse. She is still behind the counter of the store in South John street, in this city, and despite the stories to the contrary, she has never been out of Canada since her flight from New York. She talks of removing to Toronto, but never of going across the border into New York State. She keeps a small store for the sale of ladies' and childrens' underwear, and does a legitimate business. She has at times advertised that she is going out of business, and after selling out has opened a store in the same block. She has few friends.

ONE TOWN DESTROYED.

Disastrous Results of the Recent Heavy Flood in Mexico.

NOGALES, Ariz., October 12.—Reports of the flood at Sinaloa, Mexico, state that it was of greater extent than was at first supposed. The City of Queilto, a town of 8,000 inhabitants, is reported to be totally destroyed and many of the people drowned. All the fields and plantations are almost entirely ruined. The damage extends all along the coast.

STILL IN THE LEAD.

THE EXPOSITION SHOWS NO SIGNS OF LOSING FAVOR.

Gilmore's Programmes Proving More Attractive to the Public—A Glance Into the Art Gallery—Musical Treats Promised for To-Night—Notes.

The Exposition still continues to draw a good attendance each day, in fact as the days go by, and people recognize that the great exhibition will soon close and another year must pass before it will be open again, they come to get one and still one more last view. The art gallery has not created the furor this year that it has done in former years, and the people do not enthuse over the pictures as much as formerly, although many works of undoubted merit are presented. Last year there was a fine selection taken from the New York prize competition, while this year they are smaller and less noticeable. There are but few military pictures shown and these are figures giving only a faithful reproduction of uniforms, pretty only in detail.

There is a growing tendency among manufacturers of machinery to show their exhibits in motion. People take more interest in moving displays, and are always interested in seeing how things are done. Given a machine that produces some article of commerce familiar as an every-day object, and people care but little to see it standing idle, and their curiosity is not aroused sufficiently to induce them to take any interest in examining its details. Put the same machine in operation, and let the public see the articles being turned out and a crowd collects immediately to watch it. Again, buyers of new machinery make up their minds to buy a machine which some manufacturer has displayed in motion, while a better machine, perhaps, not in motion, is passed by.

An interesting feature of the musical performance this evening will be the appearance of the Ambulance Corps of Admiral Porter Camp No. 47, Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., who will assist as auxiliary musicians in anvil chorus as anvil performers. Mr. J. L. Lester, Captain of the organization, has issued a memorandum order requiring members to report at their regular meeting place, 1306 Olive street, at 6 p. m. to-day in uniform with white gloves, belts and white bands on their arms. All other orders conflicting with the above are revoked.

The following is Gilmore's programme for this evening from 7 to 10 o'clock, with an intermission of one hour:

Overture—"Lurline" ...... William Vincent Wallace
William Vincent Wallace, a son of Erin and author of many operas, possessed a very high order of musical genius. It may be said of him that his life's stream, from the cradle to the grave, was one pure current of melody and harmony, left to sweeten life to the end of time.
Patriotic Irish Song—"The War Song of Fingal. ...... Ancient Grand Selection—"Melodies of Erin."
Introducing Garryowen, Kathleen Mavourneen, The Shamrock, The Harp That Once Through Tara's Hall, Barney O'Hea, Cruskeen Lawn, Rakes of Mallon, ComeBack to Erin, Sally Shillyshally, Brien Borhoimi's March, Fairest, Put on While, Fill the Bumper Fair, Sly Patrick, To Ladies' Eyes Around, Boys, and Let Erin Remember.
Aria for cornet—"The Lost Chord" ...... Sullivan
Mr. Benjamin Bent.
Favorite Irish jig—"The Rocky Road to Dublin."
Played in the old Irish style, to which millions of the sons and daughters have danced with more heart than art in their natural and graceful "poetry of motion."
Grand selection from "Il Trovatore," introducing the "Anvil Chorus" ...... Verdi
The anvil part will be played by twenty members of the Admiral Porter Camp, No. 47, Sons of Veterans.
INTERMISSION.
March-Potpourri—"A Day with the Irish Brigade" ...... Koppitz
Introducing army trumpet calls: "The Minstrel Boy to the War Has Gone;" "Steer My Bark to Erin's Isle, for Erin Is My Home;" drum and fife patrol; and ending with a harmonious blending of the "Star-Spangled Banner" and "Garryowen," both being heard at the same time, suggestive of the combined mottoes, "Erin E Pluribus Unum Go Bragh."
Song—"Aileen Aroon" ...... Ancient
The song is most familiarly known as "Robin Adair," and accredited to Scotland, but is of Irish birth, and was adopted by the latter country.
Grand Popular Selection—"Melodies of Erin" ...... Godfrey
Introducing the Minstrel Boy, Molly Bawn, the Legacy, Teddy O'Rourke, St. Patrick's Day, Let Erin Remember, My Lodging Is on the Cold Ground, Peggy Bawn, St. Patrick Was a Gentleman, with variations; Garryowen, The Last Rose of Summer, Paddy Flaherty, The Rocky Road to Dublin, and closing with The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls.
Ancient Irish War Song—"O'Donnell Aboo."
Flute solo on Gilmore's National Anthem, "Columbia," ...... Lax
Mr. Fred Lax.
Grand Finale—"Hurrah for the Emerald Isle" ...... Bucolossi
Drill by Emerald Cadets.

Notes.

He-No is still ahead.

Ireland and Scotland to-night.

The Emerald Cadets drill to-night.

Princess Tea is the equal of any $1 tea.

Drummond's Horse Shoe tobacco is the favorite.

Gounod's grand "Soldiers' Chorus" was given on the German programme last night.

The best advertisement that He-No tea gets comes from those who use it. They never tire of sounding its praises.

There is not a display in the building which compares in interest with that of the Star Engraving plate in the east gallery.

A lady who went through the photographic displays stopped at Scholten's and remarked that she understood their popularity.

The Princess Tea is no misnomer. It challenges criticism and test of merit. Pure, fresh, fragrant, the "finest of the fine," it is the only tea in the Expo.

The fact that He-No tea stands far above any other kind in this country is firmly established in the opinion of every one who has ever tried it. Its reputation is unassailable with the people.

In selecting a tobacco one is likely to be governed by the verdict of the majority and also by actual proof of its fine quality and on these grounds Drummond's "J. T." and "Natural Leaf" brands are the finest.

Young ladies who suggest names for the bride of the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Company's "Bride's Dream," and others who guess at the number in the envelope she holds, should remember that her address is Box 234, Exposition Post-office.

The reason of the popularity of the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Company among purchasers can be found right in the Exposition where the "Bride's Dream" attracts thousands of visitors because of the rare and beautiful character of the objects of art, jewelry and other wares which surround the bride.

The Blackmailing of Saloon-Keepers by Spotters at Holyoke, Mass.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

HOLYOKE, Mass., October 12.—A local paper here yesterday created a sensation by charging that a man named Brewer and his gang had blackmailed saloon-keepers by threatening to make known evidence that would convict them of illegal liquor-selling if the dealers did not settle. In August several saloon-keepers were convicted and then Brewer blackmailed ninety others. The spotters showed each man his name on a list of liquor men, produced a plan of his bar-room and told him that they had four witnesses to prove that they drank liquor there on Sunday. Chief of Police Whitcomb admitted his knowledge of the spotters' operations.

The Browns Show a Lamentable Lack of Knowledge of Base Ball Rules, As Exemplified in Yesterday's Contest—The Betting To-Day—Wagering Against Base Hits—Racing—Notes and Gossip.

Yesterday at Cincinnati the Chicagos faced the Reds. The result was the opposite of the result of the game played in St. Louis at the same time between the leaders. In Cincinnati the Association team carried off the honors. Like its League confreres in St. Louis Monday the Chicagos barely escaped a shut-out. It is not clear what business the Chicagos have playing with Cincinnati, nor is it clear why the latter, the second in the Association, lower themselves by playing a third-rate club like the Chicagos. The fact is, the series was arranged by Spalding in a burst of freshness when he thought he had a death-grip on second place.

Chicago had announced Clarkson and Flint, but at the last moment put in Baldwin and Daly. The Cincinnatis played Smith in the points and Baldwin behind the bat. Keenan umpired the game. Cincinnati won the game in the first inning when they batted out seven runs. They followed this up in the third with three more, and with two runs in the fourth ran their total up to twelve runs at the end of the sixth inning, when the game was called because of darkness. The Chicagos were entirely at the mercy of Smith, and got but one hit. In the second inning they made a run, the only one of the game. The final score was:

THE SCORE.

Cincinnati	7	0	3	2	0	0—12
Chicago	0	1	0	0	0	0—1

Base hits—Cincinnati, 18; Chicago, 1. Errors—Cincinnati, 3; Chicago, 5.

POOR COACHING.

What Lost the Browns Yesterday's Game.

That the Browns did not support Foutz yesterday the audience did not doubt, but there was some excuse for it in the piercing cold winds. When it is so cold that players blow on their hands before catching a fly, then is the time to excuse juggling. Von der Ahe, though in a light and cheerful mood last night, did not hesitate to say that the long pitcher had not been properly supported. As the stream of people crowded around him at the grounds while the boys were getting ready to take the train, the usual question asked of Chris was:

"Say, how did the boys lose to-day's game?"

"Didn't support Dave; that's all there is to it," was the stereotyped answer.

Foutz not only was poorly supported in the field, but at bat the Browns seemed to have forgotten the points of the game. Even the "great Comiskey" seemed to have lost his head completely. The cold couldn't have caused it, and it was only explicable on the theological theory of invincible ignorance. The Browns played as if they had never heard of such a thing as a block ball. When Welch, in the seventh inning, batted the ball into the right-field seats, he stopped at third instead of coming in on the block. Rowe, the Detroit's great short-stop, was the only one who caught the point. Conway had run out of the box to assist at second, when Rowe ran up to him, gave him the ball, and said: "Get into the box there, quick, or he'll get home." The Browns stood around like sticks and never saw the chance. Comiskey didn't seem to know that in case of a block a man cannot be put out till the ball is held by the pitcher in his position. In the ninth the same stupidity was shown when Foutz dropped the ball into the right field seats. Again nobody coached Dave and he stopped at second. Dunlap saw the opening then and almost pushed Conway back into the box.

THE SLUGGERS SUCCEED.

Honors Now Even Between the Champion Teams.

From Yesterday's 5 O'clock Edition.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, ST. LOUIS, October 11.—At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon there was a very good crowd at the park to see the second game of the great Detroit-Brown's struggle for the world's championship. The weather was cold and clear and a stout wind was blowing from the northwest, which sent shivers through the audience. The batteries for the game were announced as Conway and Bennett for Detroit, and Foutz and Boyle for the Browns. There were some changes in the field of the Detroit Club. Ganzell, the catcher, was placed at first base, Richardson was played in left field, and White was put back at third, his regular position. As the Detroits stepped on the field they were cheered. The batting order announced for the game was as follows: Detroits, Richardson, l.f.; Ganzel, 1b.; Rowe, s.s.; Thompson, r. f.; White, 3b.; Dunlap, 2b.; Bennett, c.; Hanlon, c.f., and Conway, p.

The Browns batted in this order: Latham, third base; Gleason, short-stop; O'Neill, left field; Comiskey, first base; Caruthers, right field; Foutz, pitcher; Welch, center field; Robinson, second base and Boyle, catcher. As the time for play approached the crowd increased in numbers, and the benches lining the field fences rapidly filled up. It was estimated that the crowd was 8,000. It was decided to use the double-umpire system again to-day, as it gave such excellent satisfaction yesterday. The bell rung for play, with Detroit at the bat.

FIRST INNING.

For Detroit, Richardson's fly was captured by O'Neill, Ganzel's by Caruthers and Rowe's by the same man. No runs.

For the Browns, Rowe's assist retired Latham, White's fumble let Gleason go to first and Conway's assist retired O'Neill, Gleason going to second. Comiskey's foul fly was caught by White. No runs.

SECOND INNING.

For Detroit, Thompson hit a short fly to center, which Welch muffed after a desperate effort to reach it. White got first on balls. Dunlap's sacrifice advanced the runners a base and Thompson and White scored on Bennett's hit to left. O'Neill let the ball go through, and Bennett got to second. Hanlon hit to Comiskey and was put out at first, Bennett going to third. Conway foul-tipped out. Runs, two.

For the Browns, Caruthers got his base on balls. Dunlap's assist retired Foutz, and Caruthers went to second. Welch fouled out. Robinson got his base on balls, but Rowe's assist retired Boyle. No runs.

THIRD INNING.

For Detroit, Richardson fanned out and Ganzel fouled out to Comiskey. Latham's wild throw permitted Rowe to get to first. Thompson hit to Gleason and Latham's error let Rowe score and Thompson scored on White's hit. White stole second, but Dunlap struck out. Runs, two.

For the Browns, Latham flew out to Dunlap and Gleason to Rowe. O'Neill hit for a double to right, but Comiskey flew out to Hanlon. No runs.

FOURTH INNING.

For Detroit, Gleason's fumble and Latham's bad throw gave Bennett first and second base. Hanlon got his base on balls. Conway flew out to Gleason, who doubled Bennett at second. Hanlon stole a base and got to third on a wild pitch, but Richardson struck out. No runs.

For the Browns, Caruthers hit for a base to right center, Foutz hit to White, forced Caruthers at second, and Welch was doubled with Foutz. No runs.

FIFTH INNING.

For Detroit, Ganzel flew out to Caruthers and Rowe to Latham. Thompson hit safe to Gleason and stole second, but Latham's assist retired White. No runs.

For the Browns, Robinson struck out, Boyle fouled out to Richardson and Rowe's assist retired Latham. No runs.

SIXTH INNING.

For Detroit, Dunlap's fly was caught by Foutz and Bennett's by O'Neill. Hanlon hit a safe grounder to center and stole base, but Conway flew out to Welch. No runs.

For the Browns, Gleason hit safe to center field, but O'Neill struck out and Comiskey fouled out to Ganzel and Rowe's assist put out Caruthers. No runs.

SEVENTH INNING.

For Detroit, Gleason's fumble gave Richardson first base. He stole second and scored on Ganzel's safe hit to right. Rowe's safe liner to right brought Ganzel to second. Thompson's sacrifice advanced Ganzel a base, but White hit to Foutz, who touched out Ganzel at home and threw out the batter at first. One run.

For the Browns, Dunlap's assist retired Foutz. Welch hit for three bases under the seats to right field and he scored on Robinson's safe hit to center. Robinson was caught napping at first, Boyle flew out to Rowe. One run.

EIGHTH INNING.

Dunlap hit to Robinson, and was put out at first; Bennet hit safe to center, and a wild pitch brought him to second. Hanlan was put out at first, but Conway flew out to Welch. No runs.

For the Browns, Latham made a phantom hit and Gleason flew out to Ganzell. Latham stole second, O'Neill fouled out to Thompson and Latham took third on the play and scored on Comiskey's hit to center. Comiskey stole second and scored on a wild throw of Bennett. Duulap's assist retired Caruthers. Runs, two.

NINTH INNING.

Richardson hit to Gleason and died at first, Robinson's assist retired Ganzel, and Rowe went out from short to first. No runs.

For the Browns, Foutz hit for two bags to right; Welch fouled out, Robinson flew out to Rowe, and Boyle followed suit. No runs.

Here Boyle, the catcher, was presented with a fine gold watch by his friends. Mr. Joe Carr made the speech.

Games Elsewhere.

At Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday the tail-enders had a great struggle, Indianapolis making 12 runs and Cleveland none. At Washington the Washington Leagues defeated the Metropolitans of the Association by the score of 10 to 2. The Philadelphia-Athletic game at Philadelphia and the Baltimore-Brooklyn game at Brooklyn were postponed yesterday on account of rain.

THE GREAT TOUR.

The Most Extensive and Costly Base Ball Aggregation on Its Travels.

The players had scarcely time to get straightened out after the game and devour a warm supper before they were ordered to hustle for the special Vandalia, which was waiting for them at Union Depot. At 7 o'clock the teams appeared at the depot and took separate Pullman coaches. The third coach was occupied by the POST DISPATCH representative and other members of the press of this and other cities who will accompany the teams on this athletic tour—the most extensive the country has seen since base ball began. Besides the three sleepers were a dining and a baggage car. This will be the home of the forty players and guests alike—on the entire trip. There they will eat and sleep, and mingle their paeans of victory and wails of defeat. The train pulled out about 7:30 with instructions to run fast, the schedule landing them in Detroit at 10 o'clock this morning. After playing one game at Detroit to-day, with the same batteries as in Monday's game, the champions will move on to Pittsburg, where they will play to-morrow.

To-Day's Betting.

THE OTHER SIDE.

What the Detroiters Say, Publicly, of Monday's Game.

The Detroit Free Press of Tuesday, in its telegraphic account of Monday's game, shows that the Browns were very carefully "sized up" by the visiting Detroiters. It plunged into the sad and mournful tale with this soulful lament: "Did they beat us? Well, rather. Did the Volunteer beat the Thistle? Did J. L. Sullivan beat Paddy Ryan? Did Kalamazoo beat Indianapolis? Well, just in proportion did the Browns beat the Detroits. They thrashed them out of shape, pounded them back into form again and finally stepped on with both feet and crushed into the Mound City mud—outbatted, outfielded and outpitched, beaten, whipped, polished off, pulverized, demoralized, razzle-dazzled, subjugated. It was a defeat which would cause the most ardent admirer of the Wolverines to exclaim in the fervent language of the foreign poet, "O, rats! what is the matter with us?" Whew, what a game those Browns did play! Fielding superb, sharp, accurate; not an error. Batting effective, tricky base running. Too fast, altogether too fast, and during the game constantly on the move. Lively as a cage of monkeys and as full of tricks, they play the most interesting game of any club in the country.

"What a contrast was presented by the game put up by the Detroits. It is when the Detroiter who witnessed to-day's game thinks of the fearful performance of the League champions that his lamentations cease. The corrugated brow becomes smooth and a frank smile glimmers on his countenance. It is not the thought of the old-gold play that eases his sorrow, but the knowledge that the Detroits do not play that way except when they are beaten by Indianapolis, and that they are not often beaten by Indianapolis."

And then a gleam of hope is thrown out to keep the Detroit people from going stark mad: "What was the cause of the bad work of the Detroits to-day? A piece of exasperating managerial stupidity. It is well known that Ganzel can play first base to the Queen's taste and is a good hitter. By placing him at first the remainder of the team would have been left in their regular positions. Watkins, however, took two men out of their positions, and in a game where not a point should have been lost. The "Deacon" played first very nicely, but Richardson did wretchedly at third. It was too much to ask of him to put him at third without practice in a critical game like to-day's and expect him to play well. He can, with practice, play the base as well as anybody. While, owing to the almost total inability of the Detroits to bat Caruthers, the Browns would have won, still with the men differently placed, the Detroits would have made a better showing."

The Browns' pitcher is touched up in the following cheerful way: "Caruthers is a quiet little fellow, slender, and looks as though he might be troubled with heart disease or some other deadly complaint. For an invalid he pitches remarkably well. He pitches a great deal like that wiry young man named Clarkson, and his delivery seems to have the same effect on the Wolverines as does that of the Chicago curver. Getz was the only Detroiter who was able to do anything with Caruthers. The Pretzel got a single in the sixth and in the ninth cracked-out a fine double to left that avoided a shut out. Twitchell had the honor to score a single and Sam Thompson also made a hit. The rest of the sluggers devoted their time to knocking pop flies and hitting easy grounders to the St. Louis infielders."

The nines in practice are thus compared: "Suddenly there is a great shout and a dozen big fellows, in dark blue suits and white stockings, come trotting into the field. "The Detroits," "The sluggers," is the yell They began practice at once. This part of their performance was very pretty, Dunlap and Hanlon being deluged with grand-stand admiration. Shortly there was another yell and in skipped the Browns, looking too gaudy for anything. They were arrayed in light blue suits, including knickerbockers, shirts and caps, brown stockings, and to cap the color climax, bright red jackets. Any artistic deficiency in their suits was fully made up in their play. They pranced onto the diamond and proceeded to practice in an animated manner, to the accompaniment of frequent yells from the crowd. By the way, the St. Louis cranks express their joy differently from all others. They do it by a series of short, sharp screeches of delight and then subside. The long, loud roar of Detroiters is not heard here, no matter how good the play or how advantageous to the home club."

And then the long, painful record of the play is given in as gentle a manner as possible.

WARD'S GREAT CATCH.

The New York Player Makes the Greatest Play of His Life.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, October 12.—Miss Helen Dauvray, the well-known actress, was married this morning to Mr. John Montgomery Ward, ex-captain of the New York Base Ball team. The ceremony was private and the happy pair started at once on a bridal tour to the West, extending as far as San Francisco. It is expected that they will remain on the Pacific Coast until the middle of December, when they will return east in time to eat their Christmas dinner in New York. The fact explains to a large extent the devotion to base ball recently shown by Miss Dauvray. All through the earlier part of the summer she was a regular attendant at the Polo Grounds, and always aggressively championed the home team. Her tiny hands beat each other rapidly at the victory of the Giants and her dark eyes were bedewed at every defeat. But the thousands of spectators who observed her emotions little suspected that one of the Giants had any precedence over the others so far as her affections were concerned. It was noticed that she always applauded Ward when he made his appearance and that she seemed especially happy whenever he made a brilliant play. But she was so loyal to all the team that no importance was attached to this showy preference. In her love for the national game Miss Dauvray offered the splendid emblem known as the "Helen Dauvray cup" to the champion base ball team of the world, and the Detroits and St. Louis Browns are now fighting for its possession. In addition to this cup Miss Dauvray has had a gold medal cast for each member of the team. The generosity of the donor was much commented on at the time, and many reasons were urged, but among them all no suggestion for any individual player played a part. Miss Dauvray's history is too familiar for detail, but the man she is to marry is not so well known, although he has made a reputation on the diamond.

Mr. Ward first appeared as a professional base ball player with the Providence Club in 1877. He remained with them for some time, and it was mainly through his efforts that that club won the championship in 1879. In 1883 he joined the New York Club as a pitcher, but in 1884 was transferred to the position of short-stop. He has filled that position ever since, and up to two months ago he was captain of the team. He then resigned his position, possibly on account of his approaching marriage. He also organized the ball players' Brotherhood, an organization which he is now President of, but Mr. Ward was of a literary turn as well as athletic, and spent his leisure in studying law. He succeeded so well in this undertaking that he was graduated from the Columbia Law School last year. By those who know him well he is universally spoken of as a thorough gentleman and a splendid fellow.

THE LADY TALKS.

Miss Dauvray had just returned from an extended stay in the country when a reporter called on her last night at her residence. When asked as to her approaching marriage she seemed dumfounded and replied that she had no intention of it. She could not imagine how such a story could have been circulated. When she got ready to marry she would let all the newspapers know of it. When it was pointed out to her, however, how the story had been circulated she said: "Well, I must confess. I see that you know that I am to be married and it is useless to deny it further. To-morrow morning I shall be married to Mr. Ward. I wish to say in this connection, however, that I did not meet Mr. Ward on the ball-field or through any connections that I may have had with the national game. I met him socially and I assure you that he is a most cultured gentleman. He speaks five or six languages and is otherwise well informed and well bred." Miss Dauvray was somewhat fatigued but her journey from the country has seemed to refresh her and she seemed happy. She did not think her marriage would interfere with her stage career although she would not speak definitely on this point. She knew that she was going to be married and that was enough for the present.

Changing the Giants.

The Tribune of New York says: "The treasury of the New York Club is fat and swollen without any good reason for its being so. The New York Club, as it has been conducted during the last few years, does not deserve the liberal patronage bestowed upon it by the lovers of base ball in this city. It has been run in a loose, shiftless manner, which has disgusted every follower of the game in this neighborhood. The stockholders have been fortunate, but if some change is not made before next season's campaign begins the public will probably refuse to be further gulled and will stay away from the grounds. There is no excuse for the wretched record made by the players this year, and the directors are sensible enough not to attempt to make one. It is possible to strengthen the club in one or two positions only. The general opinion seems to be that there should be a general cleaning out of the old players of the club. Gillespie, Dorgan, Gore and others might be released with profit. They will probably be of value to some other club. The local enthusiasts want to see more players of the Brown, Murphy and Tiernan order in the club. In many of the recent games spectators could not well help noticing the careless, indifferent and lazy manner in which many of the players did their work. They do not appear to care whether the club wins or not. They are certainly not disturbed by a defeat. The New York Club seldom tries to strengthen its nine until some other enterprising manager has gathered in all the available good base ball players in the market. The dollars roll into the treasury of the New York Club in a steady stream, but few of them ever roll out.

Clarkson Kicking.

"Will you remain with the Chicago Club for another year?" was asked of Clarkson the other day.

"I am not sure whether I will or not," coolly remarked the great twirler, as he lifted his eyes from a letter he was writing to his wife. "But I think not, and certainly not if I can help it, unless I can make much more satisfactory arrangements with Mr. Spalding than I think I can?"

"How do you get along with Anson?"

"The best kind, there is not a better manager in the country and none I would rather work with."

"What is the cause of your complaint?"

"I have been working for my board and clothes and I am tired of it. I have pitched more games of ball than any other pitcher in the country in the last two years, and yet I am not paid as much as many players who are playing with weaker clubs and only pitch once a week or once in two weeks. Here is Boyle of the Indianapolis Club, for instance. He gets $500 more a season than I do. He is a first-class man, I admit, but I don't think he has earned any more than I have, and I can't believe anybody else does."

"If you leave Chicago, where would you like to go?"

"To Boston. I would not want to go anywhere else. That is my home, and my wife is very anxious for me to go there, and if possible I shall go."

"Why is it that Chicago has been defeated by Detroit for the championship this year?"

"Detroit is the best club and has won on its merits."

"Do you think they will win the world's championship from St. Louis?"

"That will depend entirely on the condition of the St. Louis pitchers and the Detroit batters. It will be a contest between them, and it will depend on which is in the best condition. I believe that the Philadelphias would make a better showing against St. Louis than any other club in the League. The two teams are very similar, and both play an up-hill game."

Diamond Doings.

Betting in Cleveland is from $100 to $75 to $100 to $90 on Detroit winning the series with St. Louis.

It has been learned that New York and Chicago by virtue of the percentage system with Detroit made a net return of $10,000 to the latter.

An exchange says: "The Metropolitan Club will undoubtedly secure a ground of their own in New York City, and it is no sure thing that the Detroits may not be transferred thereto and played against the New York League Club as an Association team."

W. Byrd Page's great jumping record was eclipsed in St. Louis yesterday by Chris Von der Ahe. Page jumped six feet four inches, but Chris went him two feet better, and in addition sang three bars of "Wacht am Rhein" while in the air.—[Tuesday's Times-Star.

Toward the close of yesterday's game Joe Carr gathered the Browns around him near the plate and in spite of a shower of cushions and a chorus of "play ball," managed to inform the audience that Jack Boyle's friends were desirous of giving him a testimonial. Thereupon he pulled out a case and disclosed a fine gold watch and chain which he handed over to the young catcher.

The world's champions yesterday defeated the Detroits with consummate ease, not a "slugger" reaching third base until the ninth inning. And wonderful to relate the great Bennett could not hold the Browns level on bases. They committed larceny with as much grace and abandon as though they were playing the tail enders with a "dead arm" catcher behind the bat.—[Times-Star.

The Bostons Saturday having finished the championship season, the Globe announced that its solid silver bat for the champion batter of the Boston team had been won by Sam Wise, whose record of 446 times at the bat, with 149 actual hits, gives him an average of .334. His nearest competitor is Capt. Kelly, whose average is .326. Kelly wins the medal for base-running, with an average of .426, Wheelock second, with .391.

The Pittsburg Dispatch says: "As indicative of the deep interest taken in the coming world's championship game on Thursday, the scenes around the bulletin boards throughout the city furnished strong evidence that the lovers of the game in Pittsburg feel a personal pride in the matter. The cheering was immense at several prominent places as the score showed a victory for the Browns. The latter were the favorites in the pools."

Several of the minor leagues have already ended their championship season, and the clubs have come out in the following order: International—Toronto, Buffalo, Newark, Syracuse, Hamilton, Jersey City, Rochester, Scranton, Wilkesbarre. Ohio State League—Kalamazoo, Zanesville, Sandusky, Wheeling, Columbus, Mansfield, Akron. Western League—Topeka, Lincoln, Denver, Kansas City, Omaha, Hastings. Oshkosh leads in the Northwestern, and New Orleans in the Southern League, Yesterday's Races.

At Cincinnati yesterday the selling seven furlongs was won by Fronie Louise; the five furlongs by Roundabout; the six furlongs by Lucky Jim; the mile and a half furlong by Birthday; the one mile by Carus.

At London, England, yesterday, the Czarewitch Stakes were won by Lord Rodney's Humewood.

The Jerome Park (New York) races yesterday were won as follows: Handicap, one and one-sixteenth, by Eolian; three-fourths by Emperor of Norfolk; one mile and three-fourths by Firenzi; national handicap, one mile and a half, by Linden, Volante second; five-eighths by Freedom; steeplechase by Wellington.

Gen. Wilkes won the unfinished trot at Lexington, Ky., in 2:21¾. The other trots were won as follows: The Bluegrass Stakes, by Hulder Wilkes; the 2-year-olds, by Bell Boy; the 2:33 class, by Abel.

In the 2:30 pace at Kansas City yesterday, B. T. won, and the 2:40 trot was unfinished, Lexington, Lady Stillman and Charles H. each having won a heat.

THE FRENCHMEN FAILED.

The American Cyclists Win—The Quincy Wheel Meet.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, October 12.—Monday afternoon at Coventry, Woodside and Temple, the American cycling team, met Dubois and Medinger of the French team in a ten-mile scratch race for £50. The weather was wet and boisterous. The pace throughout was very slow, the ninth mile occupying 4 min., 14 sec. Woodside, Dubois and Medinger led alternately till the last lap when Temple took the lead from Dubois and won by seven yards. Time, 35 min., 15 4-5 sec. Allegations of foul riding were made against Temple, but this is denied. The record time is several minutes under thirty.

LOCAL NOTES.

A supper will be given Dr. Emery of Roxbury, Mass., by a dozen local wheelmen this evening at the Planters' House.

At Quincy, Ill., yesterday, Percy Stone won the professional part of the hill-climbing contest. Henry Oellien beat Ed Sanders by six seconds in the amateur part. Stone's time was 22 seconds faster than the best amateur time. The hill was a bad one. Oellien, Sanders, Bremser and Gordon remained through to-day and to-morrow, but Stone got home this morning. The races occur to-day, but there is little show for any St. Louis amateurs, as Bob Ehlert of Chicago is on the grounds.

WILL FIGHT.

McAuliffe Carries the War Into Egypt and Forces Carney's Hand.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

BOSTON, Mass., October 12.—The much-vexed question as to whether the McAuliffe-Carney battle for the light-weight championship of the world would take place, which has been agitating sporting circles for the last three weeks, bids fair to arrive at a solution at last. The American champion arrived in this city very unexpectedly yesterday afternoon, and with his backers called on Capt. A. W. Cooke, who has recently developed as the Englishman's representative. McAuliffe expressed himself in the warmest terms, referring to the abuse he has been subjected to by Carney's so-called backers. "This matter has gone far enough," said the Brooklyn boy, "and you people have been filling the papers with a lot of lies for the sole purpose of making a draw of this match and getting your money out of it. I have only kept still at the earnest solicitation of my backers. I am determined to find out who is the better man, Carney or I. If he won't live up to the original agreement which was prepared by his people, calling for a fight four weeks from now, I think I know a way of settling the business to the satisfaction of the whole sporting world. I am ready to go and fight Carney off the reel in twenty-four or forty-eight hours, or fight him at weight in one week's time. If he don't make some arrangement with me this afternoon, I'll go to Patsy Shepard's saloon and give the so-called English champion the whipping he has been asking for."

THE CARNEY PEOPLE

were dumfounded at McAuliffe's unlooked-for attitude, and agreed to meet him and his backer later on in the afternoon at the Revere House to talk the matter over. They met at the agreed hour named, and no difficulty was experienced in arranging for the battle to be decided November 7. Carney took occasion to deny to McAuliffe the authenticity of the statements which have appeared in the newspapers, purporting to emanate from him. Jimmy Ormonde, who is to referee the Gaudaur-Teemer match, has been selected as final stake-holder in place of Al Smith. The movement of McAuliffe in coming to this city and forcing the Carney people into a position they did not expect, has caused a great reaction of feeling in his favor among sporting men. Now that the true facts have come to light his friends are betting 100 to 80 on him.

New Football Rules.

The Intercollegiate Football Association, to eliminate the brutal features of the game, have decided hereafter there will be two referees in each game, one to be selected by the captains of the contesting teams to decide the technical points of the game, the other to be selected by the faculties of advisory committees of the contesting colleges to give his entire attention to unfair and rough playing. The latter official is to be a graduate of one of the colleges in the League, though not an alumnus of either of the contesting colleges. The convention, besides the two referees question, also overhauled and revised the Association's constitution. The convention's action in relation to having two referees will have to be ratified by the colleges in the League before it can be formally adopted, but its ratification is almost a certainty.

Sporting Notes.

Sullivan says he won't notice Killen and denounces Parson Davies as a "bloody blower."

The Jay-Eye-See-Patron race at Chicago has been postponed on account of the heavy track.

The sale of the Woodward & Harbison combination of horses began yesterday and forty-five head were sold, aggregating $11,150.

W. Graham, the English champion pigeon shot, with Jack Brewer and Frank Kleintz of Philadelphia, challenge any three men in the world to shoot them a match, fifty birds, $100 a man, or 100 birds, $200 a man. Hurlingham rules to govern.

In an interview in Boston yesterday, John L. Sullivan said he wouldn't notice Pat Killen, and that Parson Davies, who is booming him, is a "bloody big blower."

THE STUDIOUS MAN.

Out through the gates of Ispahan
One morning rode a studious man.
"Ah, whither bound?" a traveler cried,
Who rested by a fountain side.
"I go to seek," replied the sage,
"The greatest wonder of the age."
"Then from your saddle now descend
And call your journey at an end,
For here within this sack I hold
The greatest wonder bought or sold."
And stooping down, the speaker drew
A cake of IVORY SOAP in view.
"No alkali this soap contains,
It leaves the lace and takes the stains;
It comes from oils, sweet as the rose
That in the palace garden grows;
It floats like cork upon the wave;
With this we may both wash and shave—"
"Enough, enough!" the student cried;
"You've saved me from a longer ride,"
And turning round his wisdom showed,
For back to Ispahan he rode.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Legal Notes.

The case of Annie Van Studdiford vs. Thos. Van Studdeford for divorce and alimony came up in Circuit Court-room No. 4 this morning, and was submitted on the depositions presented. Van Studdiford is a son of the late Dr. Van Studdeford, and was left considerable money by his father. He is now married and the head of a fine family. The woman alleges that he married her in Cheyenne, Wyo., in June, 1876, and he generally denies the charge.

The case of Hewitt & Krotzech vs. Felix Raeman and others, on a mechanic's lien, in an appeal taken from Justice Sheehan's Court, was up for trial in Court-room No. 5 to-day before a jury. The case was not finished.

WE show Boys' Suits at $1.65 at Famous that our competitors say are cheap at $3.50.

North St. Louis.

The special patrolmen of the Third and Fourth police districts were discharged to-day.

The Holy Name Parish will give its annual fall festival, October 25 and 26, at the new school hall, on Grand avenue.

Mary Melly, 27 years old, was arrested in the Third district this morning for stealing a pair of shoes and a flat-iron from Henry Massey, of 1611 Lucas avenue.

Mr. John Gillis, a member of the Painters' Union, died yesterday at his home, Seventeenth and Wash streets, after a lingering and painful illness of lead poisoning.

A black mare about fifteen hands high, supposed to have strayed into the city from some farm, was taken up yesterday and is in the stables of H. Wells & Co., 909 to 915 North Broadway.

Capt. McDonald of the Third District sent David Kelly, the deserter from the United States army who was arrested yesterday, to Jefferson Barracks this morning in charge of Officer McFarland.

The Schulenberg & Boeckeler Lumber Company's big sawmills will open up to-morrow, having been shut down for three months on account of low water. During that time they lost a sawing season of 6,000,000 feet of lumber.

Prosperity Lodge, No. 79, United Order of Honor, meets to-night at 3605 North Eleventh street. Capt. Harry W. Smith will be present. He is the Supreme Conductor. In the past few days the Supreme Lodge has disbursed $8,000 to the heirs of deceased members, who were identified with local lodges. This leaves only one claim of $1,000 to be paid in this city.

Mr. Henry Uhland, the well-known sand dealer of 3325 North Eleventh street, was married yesterday to Miss Elizabeth Beck. The nuptials were celebrated at the Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Fourteenth and Mallinckrodt streets. Later in the day the happy couple entertained their guests with a dinner, and last night were tendered a serenade by the North St. Louis Cornet Band, of which the groom was one of the founders.

At 9:45 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the cooper shop of August Volbach, No. 2521 North Ninth street, caused by melting pitch boiling over on a stove. The flames spread to the shop adjoining, used as a broom factory by Mueller & Hortter. An alarm from box No. 94 brought out the department and the flames were extinguished after damaging the stock in the cooper shop to the amount of $200. This is fully insured. The stock in the broom factory was damaged to the extent of $25, on which there was no insurance. The building was damaged to the extent of $200, but the insurance is not known. Groether & Boeck are the agents.

DISSOLUTION NOTICES.

NOTICE OF PARTNERSHIP DISSOLUTION.—The partnership heretofore existing between Emilia Bosch and Wm. Hurbst under the name and style of Bosch & Co., is hereby dissolved, Mrs. Emilia Bosch to continue the business at the old place of business and collect all outstanding claims. EMILIA BOSCH.

DOCTOR WHITTIER

617 St. Charles St., St. Louis, Mo.

A Regular Graduate of three medical colleges has been longer engaged in the treatment of Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood Diseases than any other physician in St. Louis, as city papers show and all old residents know. Consultation at office or by mail, free and invited. A friendly talk or opinion costs nothing. When inconvenient to visit the city for treatment, medicines sent by mail or express everywhere, securely packed, free from observation. Curable cases guaranteed; where doubt exists it is frankly stated. Hours: 9 a. m. to 2 p. m.; 3 p. m. to 8 p. m.; Sunday, 11 to 1.

Nervous Prostration, Debility, Mental and Physical Weakness, arising from Indiscretion, Excess, Exposure or Indulgence, producing some of the following effects: Nervousness, Debility, Dimness of Sight, Perverted Vision, Defective Memory, Pimples on the Face, Aversion to Society of Females, Want of Pleasure in Life, Want of Ambition, Unfitness to Marry, Melancholy, Dyspepsia, Stunted Development, Loss of Power, Pains in the Back, etc., are treated with unparalleled success. Safely, privately. Curable cases guaranteed.

Blood Impurities and Blood Poisoning, Mercurial and other Affections of Throat, Skin and Bones, Blotches, Eruptions, Old Sores and Ulcers, Painful Swellings, Bone Pains, Falling Hair,

From whatever cause, positively and forever driven from the system, by means of safe, time-tested remedies. Stiff and swolen joints and rheumatism, the result of blood poisoning, positively cured.

Unnatural discharges promptly cured without nauseous drugs, privately, safely.

Catarrh, Throat, Nose, Lung Diseases,

Constitutional and Acquired Weaknesses of Both Sexes treated successfully; also Piles

It is self-evident that a physician paying particular attention to a class of cases attains great skill. Age and Experience are Important. In this oldest office in America every known appliance is resorted to and the PROVED-GOOD REMEDIES of all ages and countries are used. My charges for medicines are as low as can be made. I use only the best. Very cheap medicines are dangerous and useless; avoid them. On account of the great number of cases applying, the charges are kept low, often lower than is demanded by others, and knowing what to do. NO EXPERIMENTS ARE MADE. If you secure the skill and get a speedy and perfect cure, that is the important matter.

MARRIAGE GUIDE. 260 PAGES. FINE PLATES. Elegant cloth and gilt binding. Sealed for 50c in money or postage stamps. Over fifty wonderful pen pictures true to life; articles on the following subjects: Who may marry, who not; why. Proper age to marry. Who marry first. Manhood; womanhood; physical decay. Who should marry. Young and old, married or single, sick or well should read this book. Popular edition, same as above, but paper cover and 200 pages, 25 cents by mail, in money or postage.

Crossman's Specific Mixture.

With this remedy persons can cure themselves without the least exposure, change of diet, or change in application to business. The medicine contains nothing that is of the least injury to the constitution. Ask your druggist for it. Price, $1 a bottle.

Revolutionized.

It seems that we have created a revolution amongst the shoe and clothing merchants in this city to such an extent that they are howling with madness at seeing how their customers leave their establishments and go to the GLOBE to do their purchasing. But what brings them? It is our compass, our price, printed guarantee, fair dealing, uniform courtesy, lowest price, cash returned if goods do not suit. Lest there should be any doubt in the minds of any people as to who really names the lowest prices in this city, we say so positively, that all can understand: Bring in the advertisement of any clothing, shoe, hat or furnishing goods house in this city, and we hereby agree to duplicate the identical quality of any goods named therein at a reduction of 25 per cent. How does this strike you?

WE SHOW:

Thousands of Men's Suits and Overcoats from $3.50 to $30.
Thousands of Children's Suits and Overcoats from $1 to $7.50.
Thousands of Suits and Overcoats for Young Gents up to 18 years from $2.50 to $20.
Thousands of Men's Shoes from $1.50 to $7.
Thousands of Boys' Shoes from $1 to $3.
Thousands of Ladies' Shoes from $1 to $5.
Thousands of Hats and Caps from 10c to $3.50.
Thousands of dozens Underwear from 15c to $2.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE BOYS.

We will give away to-morrow to every boy purchasing a $5 Suit or Overcoat a drum, with sticks and strap complete.

BABY HUMORS

And all Skin and Scalp Diseases Speedily Cured by Cuticura.

Our little son will be four years of age on the 25th inst. In May, 1885, he was attacked with a very painful breaking out of the skin. We called in a physician, who treated him for about four weeks. The child received little or no good from the treatment, as the breaking out, supposed by the physician to be hives in an aggravated form, became larger in blotches and more and more distressing. We were frequently obliged to get up in the night and rub him with soda in water, strong liniments, etc. Finally, we called other physicians, until no less than six had attempted to cure him, all alike failing, and the child steadily getting worse and worse, until about the 20th of last July, when we began to give him CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, and the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and by the last of August he was so nearly well that we gave him only one dose of the RESOLVENT about every second day for about ten days longer, and he has never been troubled since with the horrible malady. In all we used less than one-half of a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, a little less than one box of CUTICURA and only one cake of CUTICURA SOAP.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

Last spring I was very sick, being covered with some kind of scrofula. The doctors could not help me. I was advised to try the CUTICURA RESOLVENT. I did so, and in a day I grew better and better, until I am well as ever. I thank you for it very much, and would like to have it told to the public.

EDW. HOFMANN, North Attleboro, Mass.

CUTICURA, the great skin cure, and CUTICURA SOAP prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c; SOAP, 25c; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations and 100 testimonials.

Shandon Bells.

D. A. Orr in Chambersburg Valley Spirit.

Of course I saw Shandon Church, a queer-looking church with a queer-looking steeple—the steeple with one side of red stone and three sides of gray limestone, like the harlequin in the play. Though the church was built more than a century and a half ago, it was not for that I went to see it. In that quaint steeple are the bells made famous by Father Prout's pleasant poem:

—the bells of Shandon
That sound so grand on
The pleasant waters
Of the river Lee.

I climbed to the tower with the sexton's little daughter. "I can't ring them," she said. "Try, for a shilling," was my worldly answer. She rang them. Out on the still morning air she rang "There is a happy land," and the melodious notes rose heavenward, as if to seek the land of which she sung. "Now name the chords and we'll ring," some one said. When she had done as bidden one of our party took the ropes and soon Irish air and English sky took from Shandon's bells the notes of "Yankee Doodle." It wasn't either sacrilege or treason, for Irish faces looked up from the street and broke into smiles, the sexton applauded and his blushing daughter said the music was sweet and pretty. I dare say other bells I have known gave forth as much music, but none that I have ever heard or ever expected to hear so vividly brought or can bring to mind such tender recollections of absent ones as did these historic bells when the sexton's daughter made their tongues tell of "Home, Sweet Home," and the great Atlantic swept between me and the place which has none like it!

AN ODD BIRD NOW EXTINCT.

Bones of the Great Auk Received at the Smithsonian Institution.

From the Washington Star.

Several boxes and barrels of bones of the great auk, a bird that is now believed to be extinct, have been received at the Smithsonian institution from the banks of Newfoundland. The great auk was notable in size. As it stood or sat erect it was over five feet high. It had a strong bill or beak, something in the shape of that of a razorbill. One of its peculiarities, and the one to which it is indebted for its final extinction was the rediculously small wings. These wings were useless for purposes of flight, but they were used for swimming purposes. The great auk was a powerful swimmer. With its web feet in motion in the rear like a propeller, and its wings beating rapidly, it would literally fly through the water, making such speed that powerful oarsmen in a boat could not overtake it. But ashore it was a clumsy and stupid creature.

Before Europeans sought the American coast the indians, it is believed, hunted the helpless birds until they were driven to the rocks and islands far out at sea, inaccessible to the Indians, with their primitive means of navigation. But toward the end of the fifteenth century the bold sailors of northern Europe began making expeditions into the waters where the great auks kept their vigils on the rocks and the war of extermination began. Early writers describe these birds as found in great numbers. On shore they fell easy prey to the mariners. Sometimes a plank was laid from the ship to the rocky island, or a sail was spread like a bridge, and over this the birds were driven aboard like so many geese. Or they were driven into a pen and slaughtered with sticks. In such numbers were they found that ships sent to the fishing-banks were only scantily supplied with provisions, the dependence for supplies being upon the great auks which nature had provided in such abundance.

The last authentic record of the great auks having been seen alive was in 1844, when two were captured in Iceland. In 1852 one is said to have been seen alive on the Newfoundland banks, and in 1853 a dead one—perhaps the last of his race—was reported as found in Trinity bay, but Tymington Grieves thinks all reported observations since 1844 are mistakes. So many years have elapsed since it is positively known one was seen alive that all hope has died out that any have escaped the great destruction. As it frequented isolated situations for the sake of security little is known of its habits. It laid but one egg, and this was deposited on the bare rock. Thus scanty provision was made by nature to repair the losses caused by the wholesale destruction of the harmless and helpless birds. The great auk waddled from its rocky nest in ungainly fashion to the brink, sometimes tumbling into the water from quite a height, but once in the water it was as graceful as a yacht, propelling itself rapidly. It fed upon small fish, which it caught with great dexterity.

Marie Louise's Opinion of Napoleon.

J. H. Hager, in the October Cosmopolitan.

When the divorce between Napoleon and Josephine had been announced, reports were put in circulation that Marie Louise was to be the new Empress of France. Referring to these rumors she writes under date of January 10, 1810: "I don't believe a word of what they say. Napoleon would not risk a refusal, and there is too much harm that he can yet do us. And papa is too good to wish to force me in so grave a matter. I let them talk, but pity the poor Princess that he will choose. However, I'm very sure that I am not the victim predestined by politics." And a few days later: "Since Napoleon's divorce I expect to find the name of the woman he has chosen in every number of the Frankfort Journal. I confess that this delay makes me anxious in spite of myself. I have, however, placed my fate in the hands of Providence, which alone knows what will conduce to our happiness; but if ill-luck will have it, I am ready to sacrifice my happiness for the good of the State. One only finds true happiness in duty done, even at the price of one's peace of mind."

Again, on January 23, she writes as follows: "I know that they already have me married, in Vienna, to the great Napoleon, but I hope the rumor is unfounded. However, I am none the less thankful for your kind wishes; if, in spite of all, the thing comes to pass, I shall be the only one not to rejoice at it." In a letter bearing the same date addressed to her friend, Mlle. De Poutet, she adds that she amuses herself by composing waltzes.

A hiatus of three months now occurs in the correspondence. In the meantime Marie Louise, having been married to the modern Antichrist and finding him not so detestable as he was painted, has become reconciled to her lot. The next letter is dated, "Compiegne, 24 April, 1810." "I wish, my dear Victoria," she again writes to Mlle. de Poutet, who had herself just been married, "that you may be as happy as I am, and that you may find in life enjoyment equal to mine." She also praised Napoleon's easy disposition, his willingness to oblige, and his graciousness, and declared that her happiest moments were those that she passed alone with him.

After the birth of her son, the King of Rome, she prays Heaven that the child may, like its father, make all those happy that shall be brought in contact with and know him. She has but one cause of unhappiness—her husband's absence. "I can only be happy near him! May God ever preserve you from such a separation; it is too much for a loving heart, and should it continue longer, I feel that I shall succumb." In bidding him good-bye, she was convulsed by "a more violent emotion than she had ever experienced in leaving her family." If a day passed without receiving letters, she was at once thrown into the deepest despair, and when one came it only comforted her for a few hours.

BOUND TO COME.

ST. LOUISANS EXPECTING THE NATIONAL CONVENTION OF BOTH PARTIES.

The Citizens Aroused by the Suggestion of the Post-Dispatch—A Quiet Movement Already Inaugurated—C. C. Rainwater Urges Prompt Action—Mayor Francis Prepared for Work and Already in the Field—The Possibilities Favorably Discussed.

The suggestion in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH that the citizens of St. Louis should be moving in the matter of securing the next National Democratic Convention has aroused the wide-awake citizens to the importance of preparing to be winner in the contest for the honor.

Not only is the desirability of having the Democratic Convention acknowledged and its possibility discussed, but also the possibility of having the National Republican Convention. St. Louis is conceded to be the very place for both of them. It is central and it has the accommodations and experience necessary to handle crowds. More than that there is not likely to be a Missouri candidate for either place on either ticket, and hence there will no local influences to fear. There is yet another reason, and this is that St. Louis is sufficiently Western to suit both parties. Speaking of this to-day, Maj. C. C. Rainwater said: "I do not think St. Louis has a serious competitor to fear. Other cities will certainly be in the contest, but it must narrow down close to St. Louis, and the city, I believe, can get the Democratic Convention if only the proper steps shall be taken. It is admitted that Cleveland will have the first place on the ticket. Then it will be necessary that the second place be filled by a Western man. It would hardly do to go to an Eastern city and nominate an Eastern man so that the convention must come West and where will it go? Illinois has a candidate for Vice-President in Mr. Black, Indiana will have a candidate and probably other States, while Missouri is not likely to have one, being considered too much of a Southern State. It is not probable that any of the extreme Southern cities will expect or try to get the convention, so that the chances for St. Louis are fine."

"What do you think ought to be done to secure it?"

"Well, I think that there should be an organization made of some kind to have it in charge. I think not only that every man who can bring any influence to bear on any member of the committee should exert it, and that letters should be written to them, but also that an active personal delegation should be sent to each member whom we want to win. That is the right way to go at it, and it should be commenced at once. Something has been done already. Each member of the committee was invited to come to St. Louis for the Cleveland reception, and several came, while nearly every one sent a letter, and some of the letters, I understand, expressed regret at not being able to come now and the hope that the sender would be in St. Louis when the convention meets. We should go right to work on the matter."

JOHN G. PRATHER,

referring to a suggestion that he should take the initiative in the matter, remarked that he took another view of the matter. He did not think as a member of the committee that he should, but the movement should be on the part of the citizens, and Mayor Francis was the man to move. He thought that all the influence possible should be brought to bear on the other members of the committee. He favored organization of some kind as soon as possible. As to money, he said it was foolish to talk of raising any now, as, of course, no one dreamed of it being needed to get the convention here, but only for some necessary expenses after it gets here. The committee only needed to be assured of a welcome, and a committee should be appointed to do that. For himself, he was ready to go anywhere or do anything in his power.

MAYOR FRANCIS,

when spoken to about the convention, smiled knowingly and said: "I have not been entirely idle on this thing and have been moving in that direction for several weeks past. I have spoken to every man whom I thought could exert any influence and have obtained promises of work for St. Louis in this matter. Others have done the same thing and the ball has been put in motion. I think I can promise that something will be done for St. Louis to get not only the Democratic National Convention, but the Republican Convention also."

"Do you think there is any possibility of getting the Republican National Convention?"

"Why not? St. Louis is in the right spot, and two could just as well come as one. It is as easy to prepare for two as to prepare for one. There is nothing like trying, and I believe we can make it."

"Would you organize?"

"I hardly think that time has arrived as yet. We are all worn out now, and to make the movement prominent by organization might invite early opposition. My idea is for each man to do the best he can in the movement. I want to get men to work in the sections where they have influence. If I know a man in Arkansas who knows the Arkansas committeeman, I can write him or see him and get him to work with the right man, and so with others. We want to get all committed that we can. In a month or so a committee might be appointed and then when the National Committees meet we should have strong delegations before them. Certain sections of the country are natural allies of St. Louis and will help it. But we must work, and every man who can give a helping hand should do so. I see no reason why we should not secure both conventions next year."

The two committeemen who were here during the President's visit were James E. Boyd of Nebraska and R. F. Looney of Tennessee. It was stated to-day that several committeemen had declared in favor of St. Louis.

DEAD BY THE ROAD SIDE.

A Suicide Found With His Throat Cut From Ear to Ear.

This morning at 6:30 o'clock as T. Osborn, residing at No. 7210 Minnesota avenue, Carondelet, was going up Broadway, between Quincy street and Loughborough avenue, he made a most ghastly discovery. There lying in a vacant lot on the east side of the street was a man with his throat cut almost from ear to ear. The razor with which the wound had evidently been inflicted was beside him and it was all covered with blood. The man was already dead. Officer Murphy was notified, and had the body placed in a patrol wagon and removed to the Carondelet police station.

It was then learned that the man was Ernst Gutgesell, a gardener, 33 years of age, who had been residing with his wife and three small children on a farm on Loughborough avenue. The unfortunate woman was notified, and stated that her husband had left home with his wagon at 1:30 yesterday afternoon to go to the city. It was also learned that about 8 o'clock last night he was seen under the influence of liquor, and that one hour later he entered the barber-shop of John Grevet, No. 6905 South Broadwa, to get a shave. They refused to shave him, however, stating that it was too late. H then asked Grevet to sell him a razor and the latter did so, receiving $1 in payment. As Gutgesell handed him the money he remarked: "I wish you would take me across the River Des Peres and cut my throat." He then left the shop. Afterward he was seen to hitch his horse and wagon in front of No. 6930 South Broadway. At 12:30 this morning the horse and wagon were seen going south on Broadway and were brought to the Carondelet Police Station.

There can be no doubt about the man having committed suicide. His body was taken to an undertaker's to-day, and an inquest was held on it at the Coroner's office this afternoon. Gutgesell has one brother on the police force and another, a farmer, in Florissant. The latter also keeps a stand at the Union market. His brother, the police officer, will bury the body. A verdict of suicide was rendered. No cause for his act could be learned.

Belleville.

The residence of Mrs. Joseph Miller, about a mile west of the city, was entered by burglars last night. A shotgun and two Colt's revolvers were all that were taken. Entrance was effected through a rear window. Quite a number of burglaries have tbeen committed in the suburbs during the past two weeks, and the authorities are inclined to believe that they have been perpetrated by the same gang.

This was the second day of the Belleville Fair, and a large crowd was in attendance. The "old settlers" were there in force and listened to addresses by Hon. Jehu Baker and Judge George Wall. A large number of awards were made. Votes are being cast for the most popular minister of the gospel in the city, and the one receiving the most votes will be given a fine crayon portrait of himself by Mr. Hugo Hoefle.

Mr. Arthur Herr and Miss Maggie Weidman were married yesterday evening by Rev. Father Benno.

Marshal Oster is in receipt of a letter from Mr. John Seay of Mount Vernon, asking information of his son, W. R. Seay, who ran away from home and is supposed to have come to this city.

MONEY.

NEW YORK, October 12, 11 a. m.—The stock market opened firm to strong this morning, with first prices from ⅛ to ⅜ per cent above last evening's final figures, generally, though New England was a marked exception with a loss of ¾ per cent. The improvement was not maintained, however, and prices receded immediately, though New England, which had opened down, and Reading were well held for some time. The losses were for fractions only, Union Pacific which showed the heaviest decline, losing ¾ per cent. The downward movement was checked by 10:30, and a rally which carried some stocks a shade above the opening figures occurred, and Jersey Central gained 1. There was a little further change in the market, and at 11 o'clock it is quiet and firm at close to opening prices.

Noon.—Money is easy at 4@5 per cent. Bar silver, 96. The stock market became extremely dull soon after 11 o'clock, and prices showed a downward tendency, though fluctuations were confined within the narrowest limits and the dealing entirely devoid of feature. There was a little more animation exhibited late in the hour and the decline became pronounced, but losses were from ⅛ to ½ per cent only, and toward noon a better tone prevailed. At 12 o'clock the market was dull and steady, generally at small fractions below first prices. United States 4s, coupon, 124⅞; do 4½s, coupon, 108; Pacific 6s of 1895, 121.

LOOKS LOWER.

A Bearish Prospect for All Markets From One Firm's Standpoint.

By Telegraph from Jones, McCormick & Kennett, Chicago, to the POST-DISPATCH.

CHICAGO, October 12, 1 p. m.—Several strenuous efforts were made this morning to put wheat up, but with only moderate success. Local talent is mixed on the future of wheat, but on such bulges as we had to-day there seems to be no end to the amount of wheat that comes out from all directions. The buyers are not strong enough numerically to stand this avalanche of wheat, so after struggling hard to hold the market up they finally tire out and sell on an eighth or quarter-cent decline. Such has been the character of our market for some time and without speculation. We expect to see it sink still lower, with the usual hard spots. In the present state of affairs the market is in a condition to sell as low as it has at any time within the past two months. We note a heavy close and a dull trade.

Bulls hang on to corn with commendable tenacity and buy on soft spots, but between those who are friendly to corn and the large receipts we believe the bears are playing against encouraging and will finally have the profits. The market to-day has not been very active, but the tone is easy and closed barely steady.

Provisions were more active. Hogs being in good supply and lower. The opening was heavier. The market held fairly steady for a time, but again became depressed in sympathy with the decline in corn, and closed weak. We think the outlook is for lower prices.

St. Louis Markets.

FORENOON SESSION—CLOSING 1 P. M.

There is now in the available supply (visible and amount on ocean for Europe) 45,061,000 bu wheat, a decrease of 200,000 bu from last week and 29,966,000 bu smaller than a year ago; and 9,411,000 bu corn, an increase of 339,000 bu over last week and 8,112,000 less than a year ago.——The increase in exports of corn from this and other countries is shown by the amount on passage to the United Kingdom, which increased 387,000 bu, though that bound for the continent decreased 347,000 bu; but it is the Kingdom that has the smallest supply of corn and from which comes the best demand.——Last week's imports of flour and wheat and their own farmers' deliveries of wheat, made up an amount that exceeded the United Kingdom's consumptive requirements and this increased their supplies by nearly 900,000 bu.——Hutchinson's brokers were selling May corn right freely in Chicago to-day.——India's exports of wheat from April 1—the beginning of the crop year—to October 1 were 21,420,000 bu, about equally divided between the United Kingdom and Continent, against 29,132,000 bu for same time last year.——The Daily Trade Bulletin of Chicago makes the corn crop 1,555,608,000 bu from an area planted of 77,986,392 acres. These figures, it says, were specially telegraphed the Bulletin from the Department at Washington and are based on the October returns. This amount is only 100,000,000 less than last year's crop.——Chicago wired R. Cleary & Co.: Duluth wires: "Small receipts is nigger in a wood-pile; reported lack of cars to haul wheat is a humbug. Hundreds of empty cars here and everywhere else, except where wanted to haul wheat. Believe Minneapolis stocks double what reported. Think Minneapolis and railroad bosses long lots of wheat and holding back shipments. If your crowd go gunning for this long wheat and bring it there will be no lack of cars, and receipts will quadruple. Dakota has more wheat than last year, and Minnesota about the same."——Inspected into barges yesterday for export were 44,042 bu No. 2, and 16,000 bu No. 3 corn. ——Private cables on wheat reported less disposition on the part of buyers to operate and English millers using American wheat sparingly.——J. B. Dutch of Chicago was welcomed on 'Change to-day by the many friends he made while in business here a few years ago.——The stock of oats in this market showed up over a million bushels this morning and the parade in honor of President Charles Isaacs, O. P. M. E. (Official Prophet of the Merchants' Exchange was duly held, but the banquest was not. The President was received and warmly congratulated, Col. Joe Sherry making the greatest effort of his life in the speech he delivered, after which the order of march was formed, Col. Sherry supporting the President on the right and Maj. Hamlin on the left, their rear resting on the fountain. To the inspiring strains of "Oh, no, we'll never get," etc., the column deployed upon the stairway and thence across to the banquet hall at Helery's. Here there was a slight misunderstanding, as both the Colonel and the Major insisted upon shaking for the feast, Col. Joe saying he must have some action, you know, but the President demurring on the grounds that it was his celebration and in his honor and like the Cleveland reception the entertainers should ante up for all expenses. This split the combination clear up the back, and the assembly adjourned sine die, greatly to the sorrow of the Colonel and the Major.——Late in the session there was some talk of a money panic in New York.——The amount on passage to Europe:

On passage to United Kingdom:

	Oct. 8, '87.	Oct. 1, '87.	Oct. 9, '86.
Wheat and flour bu	12,416,000	12,704,000	17,280,000
Corn, bu	1,815,000	1,428,000	2,315,000

On passage to Continent:

Wheat, bu	1,664,000	1,960,000	4,960,000
Corn, bu	210,000	557,000	1,630,000

Inports into United Kingdom for weeks ending on given dates:

	Oct. 8, '87.	Oct. 1, '87.	Oct. 9, '86.
Flour, bbls	232,000	304,000	140,000
Wheat, bu	2,1 2,000	1,864,000	1,680,000
Corn, bu	762,000	1,097,000	1,215,000

Wheat was dull and with few special features of any interest. The bulls had early in the day a decrease of 564,000 bu in the amount on passage to Europe, the smallest receipts here of any day so far this season and stronger markets at both Chicago and New York, but the advantage they then got out of these inferences was small and not very remunerative. In fact it was a very weak-kneed market during the early hours, though at times presenting some slight show of strength. Considerable long wheat was for sale, New York selling some early in the day, but outside of this there was not much offering, and though the chief demand came from "scalpers" there was enough buying to get away with the amount offered. Speculation on the long side, except for a "scalp," appears to be dead just now, the weakening and quiet markets on the other side, the small export clearances at the seaboard, and the fear of that big spring wheat crop coming into the primary markets frightening buyers off. On the other hand there is not much short selling, as the bears are waiting for a right soft spot and besides that are considerably alarmed at the very strong cash market. This latter influence made itself felt after the call where the first sales of cash were made. Cash was so strong then and October so eagerly sought after at ⅜c advance, that the whole market became infected with a more bullish spirit and advanced ¼c. Chicago improved about that time, said to be on a dispatch that the Russians were at some jaw-breaking place—Ryomgangaroff—and this helped the advance. The near months held their own to the close, but December and May fell back late, the former closing ⅛c above and the latter 1-16c below yesterday. Spot grades were urgently sought after by local millers and for shipment to outside mills and for No. 2 red higher prices were paid, but later in the session the feeling was easier, it was harder to effect sales and not over 71½c was obtainable for this side receipts. No. 2 red, 71¼c in M., 71⅜c in C., 71⅜@71¼c in St. L., 72c bid E. side; No. 3 red 69½c in St. L., 70½c E. side; No. 4, 67¼c in D., 67¼c bid St. L. and C.

Corn weakened off a little more in sympathy with a decline in Chicago, but did not have many sellers and was very dull. Receipts here were not much smaller than they have been lately, and the stock showed a material decrease, owing to a 60,000-bu shipment by the barges. The depressed appearance of other points and the slack demand here caused prices to gradually give way, and they closed ¼c below yesterday. Spot grades quiet, with less doing, chiefly because of light offerings, but held firmly, and No. 2 white higher. No. 2, 39¾c in U., 40c in St. Louis; No. 3, 39¼c in C., 39½c in U.; No. 4, 37c in U. and C.; No. 2 white, 44¼c bid for U., 46c for this side; No. 3 do, 43c bid this side.

Oats were entirely nominal, as not a trade was made, but there were buyers at yesterday's closing rates. Spot grades stronger and in fair demand. No. 2, 24⅜c in St. L., 24½c in M., 24⅜c bid for U., 24½c for C.; No. 3, 23⅝c bid for St. L.; No. 2 white, 26c bid for D. and E. side.

Rye again lower and still quiet. Grade No. 2 sold East track at 51@50c, and this side on track at 50c.

Flour—The best grades were stiffer, with little to be had, as there were few sellers and the low mediums were held firmly, though not in such request as the better qualities. Quotations were as follows: XX, $2.10@2.25; XXX, $2.35@2.45; family, $2.55@2.65; choice, $2.85@3; fancy, $3.25@3.40; extra do, $3.50@3.65; patents, $3.75@4. These prices are for lots on arrivals at the depot or levee; order lots higher.

Rye Flour—$2.95@3.05.

Cornmeal—$2.10@2.15; cream or pearl meal, grits and hominy, $3.25. Foregoing on orders delivered by dealers in lots to suit.

Bran dull and lower. Sacked, 66c at mill, 64c at country point, 68c f. o. b., bulk, 55½c at country point.

Hay was unchanged, the demand coming for the best stock, which was firm. Sales ranged: Prairie, $7.50@11.50; mixed timothy, $10@13 for common to fancy, prime to fancy timothy, $13@16.50. East track stock 50c to $1 lower than this side.

Provisions were weak and lower, with a dull market and little done outside the regular order business. Several cars of cured dry salt c'ribs sold to arrive, the terms of which were kept private, but there were sellers late at 7.15c c. and f. here. Loose dry salt f. o. b. on cash or orders—Shoulders, 5⅛c; longs, 7¼c; c'ribs, 7.35c; shorts, 7.65c; boxed longs, 7¼@7⅜c; c'ribs, 7⅜@7½c; shorts, 7¾c; extra longs, 7c. Bacon—Shoulders, 6⅛c; longs, 8¼@8½; c'ribs, 8⅜c; shorts, 8¾@8⅞c; hardside mess pork $14.25; winter standard pork, $14.75. Prime steam lard, packed, 6.40c; fancy leaf, 7½c. C. s. c. hams, 11@13c. Breakfast bacon, 11½@12½c. Beef—Family, $6@9 ⅌ bbl; on orders, higher; $4@5.50 ⅌ half bbl; dried, 10@12½c; selected, 14c ⅌ lb; smoked tongues, $4.25@5 per doz. Tallow—Prime to choice in oil bbls, 4⅛@4¼c; No. 2, 3¼@3½c; in irregular packages, ¼c less. Grease—Brown, 2¼@2½c; yellow, 2½@2¾c; white, 3@3¾c. Salt—Domestic, $1.05 per bbl on East and $1.10 this side. Ground alum, $1.10@1.25 per sack; small way higher.

Highwines unchanged at $1.05 in St. Louis, Cincinnati and Peoria, $1.10 in Chicago.

Lead still declining and dead dull, sellers offering at $4.15, but finding no demand at all.

Afternoon Board.

May wheat weak, but other months steady. Corn easier.

CATTLE—The cattle market to-day was very poorly supplied, the run being the smallest for several months. As a result the volume of business was light, and sales were made on a much stronger basis than would have been the case had the supplies been more adequate to the demand, which was very good from all sources. The supplies consisted mainly of common cattle, there being very few desirable stock of any description. Shippers who were well represented were unable to do anything and city butchers and retailers were obliged to curtail their orders very materially. The basis for sales was as follows:

Good to choice native steers, $4.10@4.75; fair to medium do, $3.50@3 90; common, $2.25@3.00; fair to good butchers' steers, $2.50@3.15, common do., $1.50@2.25; fair to good cows and heifers, $1.75@2.40; common, $1.10@1.65; fair to good feeders, nominal; stockers, nominal; bulls, $1.25@2; milk cows and calves, nominal; veal calves, car lots, $4.50@6.50 per head; fair to good grass Texans, $2.50@2.85; fair to choice corn-fed Texans, $3.00@$3.45; common to good Texas cows, $1.10@2.25.

HOGS—The general market opened up active and during the earlier hours the volume of business was large. The tone was steady and prices substantially the same as on yesterday but no better. Receipts were larger than they have been of late, and the proportion of good fat hogs increased. The competition between buyers was less sharp, as packers showed a disposition to hold back for lower prices, but it was not thought that they would succeed, as the supplies, though larger than usual, were still below the requirements of the trade. City butchers were very free buyers at $4.60@4.80 for good light to best heavy. Packers paid from $4.60@4.75, and speculative traders who wanted hogs bought freely at a range from $4.10@4.65 for pigs to good mixed. There was a very fair demand for light hogs for Eastern shipment, but Yorkers were quoted 5@10c lower at $4.50@4.60, while pigs and lights brought $4.25@4.45. Trade continued active, but the market eased about the time that the supplies were exhausted, and closed generally weaker.

Ready to Sell Low.

Our undertaking in this city, as we understand it, is to save you money. We have an option either of two ways to do that, or both: by giving you clothing to wear longer, or putting the prices down.

We'll do it both ways.

We mean to put the sharpest edge on our business that it will bear—to get you quickly. You can get a half-loaf value any time.

We have every quality between too fine and mean. By too fine, we mean fine to flimsiness; by mean, we mean unreliable.

We have every quality that will turn out good in service: and give the best service of its grade.

We have the store full of such clothing for as little money as would buy the right kind of cloth, and make it with care.

You shall reap our manufacturing facilities and our big ability to make it cost the least. We shall ask just such prices. We can make them by taking just as little a profit as will carry along our expenses and get the business.

We know the smaller the prices the quicker you'll be drawn to good clothing. You shall have both from us.

THE COWBOYS' QUEEN.

Romantic Adventures of Mrs. Gramer, a Runaway Wife.

NEW YORK, October 12.—Augusta Loesner, a beautiful, buxom blonde of 20 years, who came from Saxony in 1884, was met and woed and won almost immediately by Xavier Gramer, a widower with six children, and about fifteen years her senior, and he took her to his home in Brooklyn. The new wife soon had numbers of admirers, and as she and the children could not get along together she eloped with a "cowboy" and started for the far West. A few months ago Gramer received from his wife a letter dated at Walla Walla, W. T., reciting an almost incredible story of adventure and nomadic life that, while it was interesting, showed Mr. Gramer a way to permanent release from the matrimonial bonds which still legally bound them together. She wrote that she had gone to Detroit and joined interests with a party of emigrants bound for Idaho, where they proposed to engage in farming. On the way across the plains she learned how to ride and how to shoot as became a pioneer woman. The emigrants were disappointed about getting the land they had intended to settle upon as homesteaders, and so determined to go on further and engage in stock-raising. Mrs. Gramer went with them, assisting at the cooking and camp work when they were in camp, and at driving and herding while on the march. One day the party learned that buffaloes were in herd not far distant, and the men were wild to get a shot at them. Mrs. Gramer insisted upon going with them, and although they tried to persuade her to remain with the wagons, she was obdurate, and they concluded by TAKING HER ALONG.

Mounted on an ugly little mustang, and carrying a light rifle across her saddle, she rode with the men until the game came in sight, when in the consequent excitement and commotion she became separated from the party, and her mustang chancing to stumble, she was thrown and had her leg broken. She lay helpless for several hours in a slight depression on the ground, suffering excruciating pain, when a band of Snake Indians who had been hunting buffalo came along and discovered her. They took her up tenderly and a half-breed medicine man among them managed to set the broken limb. Making a litter for her of long poles and wicker-work, that was trailed along the ground behind a pony, the Indians took her with them on their journey toward the Columbia River. During her convalescence she was the recipient of distinguished attentions from the chief of the band, who proposed to install her as the head of his household. But feigning greater weakness and suffering than were real, she threw the Indians off their guard, and when opportunity presented itself she seized a mustang and effected her escape to a party of cowboys in the near neighborhood, by whom she was given an enthusiastic welcome. She the only woman within many miles and was treated with the utmost gallantry by the semi-civilized stock raisers, who handed over to her the charge of their camp.

She writes that she is delighted with the wild, free life she is leading among the cowboys, by whom she is treated like a queen and whom she invests with a nobility and gallantry she did not find prevalent among the denizens of Brooklyn. She said she would never return to civilized society again. Mr. Gramer had begun an action for a divorce absolute and the summons by publication having been yesterday returned, properly executed, the case was set down for an early hearing.

THE SUGAR TRUST.

The Real Cause of the Efforts to Form a Combination.

NEW YORK, October 12.—In regard to the proposed "sugar trust," the Sun says: "It is said that one secret of the present efforts to form a combination is the desire of some of the older and richer refiners to get out of the business. It is a hard business to get out of for the plant of a sugar house, while very expensive, is absolutely unsaleable. It cannot be used for anything else and the people who want to undertake sugar refining are very few and hard to find. If a trust is formed there will be a division of responsibility and a lessening of domestic competition, both of which will prove very grateful to the average refiner. Moreover, if the trust is represented by shares the property will be so divided up that even small investors can obtain an interest in the business. Such an arrangement would enable the present refiners gradually to retire from business, whereas now not one of them could sell out. Though there are some surface indications that the negotiations are nearing an end, it was learned yesterday that several important points have still to be disposed of.

COLUMBIA, S. C., October 12.—Dr. Geo. Jackson Fisher of Sing Sing, N. Y., one of the most prominent physicians of the State, and who in 1878 was president of the State Medical Association, is on a brief visit to South Carolina accompanied by his wife. During the war Dr. Fisher, at his own expense, voluntarily hurried to the scene of the battle of Antietam and offered his services in assisting and caring for the wounded. He was assigned to duty among the 1,400 wounded Confederate soldiers, and labored in their behalf for weeks, until, himself prostrated by illness, he was obliged to be sent home. Among his patients were Sheriff Rowan of this city, Maj. Leitner, the present Secretary of State, and other prominent citizens. Dr. and Mrs. Fisher arrived here Saturday evening, and during their brief stay have been the recipients of marked attention and hospitality at the hands of leading citizens.

A BELLE ON THE STAGE.

THE WHIM OF A PRETTY YOUNG SOCIETY FAVORITE OF MEMPHIS.

Miss Ray Douglass of "Little Puck" Company is Mrs. S. A. Montgomery of the Tennessee Metropolis—Her Sudden Entrance on a Stage Career—Novel Experiences of Theatrical Life—Joaquin Miller's Daughter—The Opening of Wallack's Theater—Manager Gilmore Gets the Best of McKee Rankin—Amusement Notes.

"Mamie, dear, you'll have to get up and rehearse a trio."

"Rehearse a trio!"

"Yes, Mr. Withers says we must learn it at once."

The scene was in a small, modestly furnished room of a boarding-house not far from the Grand Opera-house. The first remark was in a duett by a couple of melodious voices owned by a couple of very bright-faced young women with cheeks all aglow from the fresh crisp air, and with eyes sparkling with the excitement of a little run, who burst into the room. The surprised exclamation was from another young woman who lay on a couch propped up with pillows, wearing a delicate baby-blue robe, and wrapped up snugly with covers to keep off the drafts.

The young woman on the couch was petite, decidedly pretty and attractive. Her costume was necessarily somewhat neglige. Her round, white throat and shapely wrists had bits of lace around them, and her light hair lay in long, loose strands on the pillow or nestled in rolls about her face and neck. Her oval face and fair complexion were marked by a pair of large brown eyes and red, rather full lips. She was Ray Douglass of the "Little Puck" company, and her companions were the two clever soubrettes of the company, Bessie Sanson and Rillie Deaves. Mr. Withers is the Musical Director.

"Say, girls, can't we rehearse the trio right here?" said Miss Sanson.

"Yes, why not?" added Miss Deaves, "it would be jolly."

"Just the thing!" echoed Miss Douglass, "if Mr. Withers wouldn't object."

"But Mr. Withers does object," came in a masculine voice from an adjoining room, "Can't sing here, theater's the place."

SO THE LITTLE LADY

on the couch sat up, laid her illness quietly aside in some nook of the bed to be resumed again when the rehearsal was over and business was not so pressing. It is one of the demands of the stage and one of the experiences which the pretty invalid had to pass through in the very beginning of her stage career. It was something which she had not been accustomed to, and was a revolution in her life. She has been the petted child of fortune, with the kindest of protectors, with wealth and luxury at her command, and with no law to obey except her own wish. Under the stage name of Ray Douglass, in a minor role of "Little Puck," no one, unless personally acquainted with her, would recognize a young lady who was one of the favorites in the society of Memphis, Tenn. She is working now to become a favorite on the stage. It will be remembered that about six weeks ago the upper circles of Memphis were stirred to their profoundest depths by the report that a young married lady of one of the wealthiest and best families had left a handsome home and a young husband after a year's married life, and had gone to New York to enter upon a stage career, and was then singing in the chorus of McCaull's Opera Company. The lady was Mrs. S. A. Montgomery, wife of the Secretary of the Memphis Jockey Club, who is a son of Col. H. A. Montgomery, President of the Memphis Compress and Storage Company, one of the most prominent gentlemen in the city. Mrs. Montgomery was, before her marriage, Miss Mamie Thompson, a grand-daughter of the late Hon. Jacob Thompson, who was one of the leading men in the South. She and her sister Kate, who was a reigning belle of Memphis before her marriage with Mr. Von Kirkman, a wealthy resident of Nashville, were tenderly reared by their grandparents, and were given every advantage of education and training that money and position could command. Miss Mamie spent summer before last at Old Point Comfort, and it was there that an attachment sprung up between her and Mr. Montgomery which ended in what was considered for both parties a brilliant marriage. The young couple, after a tour of the resorts, returned to Memphis and lived with Mrs. Montgomery's grandmother in one of the handsomest homes in Memphis.

There was apparently nothing to mar the happiness of the married pair, but there was an estrangement, and in the latter part of the past summer the wife of a year was estranged from her husband, and leaving his home went to New York to try her fortunes on the stage. She was alone and began just as any other beginner would, by applying for any position she could get. She was first engaged by Manager McCaull for his chorus in the "Bellman," but not liking that kind of work, preferring rather something that would give her training in acting, she accepted an engagement with Manager Hayden for the "Little Puck" company.

The entrance of the POST-DISPATCH representative into Miss Douglass' apartment was something of a mistake, as the lady took her caller for a messenger, and sent word to come right in. there was some blushing surprise when a man made his appearance, but the lady quickly recovered her ease and apologizing for her manner of reception, laughed heartily at the situation. She was averse to having any mention of her identity made in the papers.

"I am only a beginner," said she, smiling, "in a little bit of a role, and I do not want attention called to that. I do not pretend to be an actress, I am only learning to be one and have to begin at the bottom, of course, and I would rather be known only as Ray Douglass until I do learn and can do something better. Then there is another reason."

This reason was a credit to her heart. It was to save the fond old grandmother from any sorrow that might arise from flippant newspaper notice of her grand-daughter. The face grew serious and the voice faltered when she said that she was afraid that anything there might be said would wound her. "It is not for myself," she added, "but I want to save her from any trouble on my account."

She took a brighter view of it, however, afterwards, and chatted cheerfully of her work and ambition. There was a merry laugh at the recollection that some friends who had recognized her were shocked at the idea that she should wear short skirts and that a ruffian of an actor should presume to embrace her on the stage.

"Can not you give your experience as a novice?" asked the reporter.

"As a novice! Why, I am not a novice. I have been on the stage——" then she checked herself at the idea that it was only six weeks, if it did seem an age, and had another laugh.

The time has been short, but the experience has been genuine. It has been nothing but work, and for the last two weeks work under difficulties as a severe cold made her really an invalid unfit for work, but she seems to regard her situation cheerfully and with hope. The young actress—she is only about 18—seldom refers to her domestic troubles, the outcome being denominated "a disagreement." She and her husband met face to face in a hotel at Cincinnati and did not know each other.

Miss Douglass or Mrs. Montgomery has several friends in St. Louis who have known her from childhood, and she was here with her husband during the spring race meet at the Fair Ground in June. She will be recognized as one of the bright little maids at school in "Little Puck."

Joaquin Miller's Daughter.

"Little Puck" may number in its company another lady who has become somewhat prominent through an action somewhat similar to that of Miss Douglass. She is Maud Miller, the daughter of Joaquin Miller the poet and dramatist, who against her father's consent married Loudon S. McCormack the actor and went on the stage. The poet withdrew his favor from his daughter and launched a father's anger at her, but she clung to her actor husband and her chosen profession. Mr. McCormack tried "49" last season, but it failed, and his wife has been with various companies since, last with the Louisville Exposition Company, which went to pieces. She is a tall, slender girl and resembles her father. She was his favorite, and was the only child to whom he gave the advantages of education. He gave her his cabin place in Washington, but has sold it and purchased a ranch in Southern California. The father and daughter have become reconciled to some extent and correspond regularly. Mrs. McCormack came her yesterday with a view of joining the "Little Puck" forces. Her husband, who accompanied her, is a St. Louisan by birth, and has friends and relatives in the city.

WALLACK'S THEATER OPENING.

A Clever Company Presents a Weak and Purposeless Comedy.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, October 12.—Wallack's Theater was last night opened to the public, under the management of Mr. Henry Abbey. As might have been expected there was a brilliant assemblage.

The parquet was white with female white hats, and the boxes were resplendent. The play presented for the opening was Mr. Grundy's "Mouse Trap" in six acts. It is a literary comedy of delicate and almost amateurish texture without situation or intensity, but replete with fine lines of more than ordinary delicacy. It took its place among the toxicological plays of the moment as the latest drama of the drug. Mr. Mansfield has been wrestling for weeks at the Madison Square with a mysterious potion. Mrs. Langtry dies nightly at the Fifth Avenue of strychnine, and now we have arsenic introduced as a factor in emotion. The "Mouse Trap" it may as well be said at once is not a great or even a good play. It deals with the attempt of a wife to poison her husband because she loves another man, and her method is to administer poison in the guise of medicine. She is trapped by the old doctor and when discovered in her scheme she drinks the poison herself and thus ends her career.

THIS MALIGN PURPOSE

is worked out with little attempt at suspense or crisis. She is jealous of her husband's half sister, who is to receive his fortune, and then prevents her from obtaining her rights and to secure the man she loves, who happens to love the half sister, poison is resorted to. That such a motive should be treated in a comedy vein is characteristic of our time. At any other period it would have received melodramatic attention. Here it is made the excuse for the airiest badinage and the most diaphanous dialogue.

Attention was focused on the new company, however, and it is pleasant to be able to say that the actors showed far more skill than the playwright. Mrs. Abbey played the part of the wife, Beatrice Selwyn, who endeavors to poison her husband, and she was met with a hearty welcome the moment she made her appearance on the stage.

She is a singularly attractive woman with a finely modeled head and bust and a face expressive at once of intelligence and vivacity. She is already known to us as a comedy actress of the utmost piquancy and some disappointment was felt at seeing her at her reentree in the role of a murderess. She won her audience, however, in spite of it by her easy and deliberate art no less than by her grace of demeanor, and in those moments when a gesture or a look is of the most importance, she was noticeably significant, undemonstrative and attractive. It is not too much to say that she made a decidedly triumphant impression.

MISS ROSE COGHLAN

was returned to us in the role of the half-sister, Kate Derwent, and was most vehemently welcomed by her old friends. Her role is purely that of comedy. She is in love with Lord Normantower, played by Mr. Tearle, and their scenes are simple almost to childishness, but pretty in their simplicity, and both Miss Coghlan and Mr. Tearle were unusually happy in the delicate by-play and exquisite nothingness of flirtation. It is rather late to commend Rose Coghlan to comedy, but she is here distinctly commended for doing exceedingly well. The most conspicuous part in the play is that of a gruff, plain-spoken old doctor, Sir Peter Lund, played by Charles Groves most superbly. It is true he had little else to do than to suspect that Mr. Selwyn is being poisoned, but his simulation of an irascible, cruelly candid physician of the old school won great commendation.

Mr. E. D. Ward, who is a comedian entirely new to us, appears to be a young man of much intelligence and disciplined dramatic talent, but there is little in the role of the sick husband to exhibit his ability. It may be said that Mr. Abbey's opening satisfied everybody of the excellence of his company, and raised the hope that he had a stronger play in reserve than "The Mouse Trap."

NYM CRINKLE.

SMOOTH NED GILMORE.

The Manager Wins in a Squabble With McKee Rankin.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, October 12.—Ned Gilmore and McKee Rankin had what threatened to be a row the other night at Niblo's. Gilmore, however, carried off the honors as usual, and with not much of an effort at that. Rankin was to have produced "Macbeth" in a week or two at Niblo's, but at the last moment Gilmore gave the time to another attraction. Rankin rushed to him, and with fire in his eyes and anger in his soul demanded to know the reason why he was shut out of the theater.

"Why, you are not ready," said Gilmore.

"But I will be," protested Rankin.

"I am afraid not," said the other gentleman.

"But I tell you I will," said the actor, "or I will sue for damages."

"Oh, well," said Gilmore, with the air of a man who is too good-natured to take any worry in his life, "don't bother about it, and I will give six weeks time in February."

"Will you?" gasped Rankin delightedly, "six weeks?"

"Yes," said Gilmore, sententiously.

Mr. Rankin wrung his hand and departed happily up-town. It was some hours before he realized that there is a palpable degree of difficulty in inserting six long weeks in the very short month of February. Then bitterness filled his soul, and remarks about Gilmore were free and forcible.

Amusement Notes.

"Hilarity" rules at the Standard this week.

"Cattle King" goes to enthusiastic applause, particularly in the upper part of the house, at the People's.

"Her Atonement" is being effectively presented by Jean Delmar, Gussie De Forest and others at Pope's.

Mrs. Dion Boucicault and her talented company give charming performances of "My Geraldine" at the Olympic.

The sale of seats for the engagements of the Florences at the Olympic, "Devil's Auction" at the People's, and "Argonauts" at Pope's, will commence to-morrow morning.

"Little Puck" has a most amusing plot and is improving in music and special features at every performance. Frank Daniels keeps his audiences in good humor at the Grand.

No performance of "Last Days of Pompeii" was given last evening owing to the cold weather, but the spectacle will be presented to-night and the home-rule programme adhered to. Gladstone and Parnell will rule.

The repertory announced for the Louis James and Marie Wainwright engagement next week at the Grand Opera House is as follows: Sunday night, "Virginius;" Monday, "Ingomar;" Tuesday, "Gretchen" (a new version of Faust and Marguerite); Wednesday, "Othello;" Thursday, "Macbeth;" Friday, "Hamlet;" Saturday matinee, "Gretchen;" and closing Saturday night with "Virginius." The sale of reserve seats will open to-morrow morning.

THE ATLANTA'S DEFENSE.

Success of the Naval Sham-Battle at Newport Last Night.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEWPORT, R. I., October 12.—The Atlanta's defense was a success. Last evening the much-talked-over torpedo attack took place, and it was an almost ideal night for such an attack. The Atlanta rested in quiet defiance of any possible danger, with everything but lower yards down from aloft and over the sides as outriggers for her steel hawser, on which her main reliance was placed to keep boats outside the distance of twenty feet from her sides. Her electric search-light was lighted and preparations were made to give the assailants a warm reception. The umpires were on board by 7 o'clock and stood ready to pronounce on the success or defeat, in accordance with the rules adopted, which adjudged any torpedo boat out of action when sufficiently long under fire to receive three rounds from the guns. Guard boats which should fail to discover the approach of a torpedo boat until the same was within twenty feet were to be considered as destroyed.

The rules said that if the Atlanta was torpedoed once she would be considered as disabled, and twice as destroyed. The attacking force consisted of six steam launches and four pulling boats armed with spar torpedoes, and of other light-pulling boats, all under the command of Gen. Chester of the Galena. All the torpedo boats carried a light spar fitted with a primer instead of a torpedo, which was to be exploded on getting close to the Atlanta as twenty feet. The pulling or decoy boats were armed with hand torpedoes to attack the obstructions about the Atlanta, the idea being that the defense suddenly finding herself required to throw the electric light over a large number of boats in addition to the steam launches, some one or more of them, by taking advantage of the dark line. The boats from the Richmond were ordered to the west end of Rose Island and ordered rays, might succeed in getting within the dead to keep out of sight until the attack began, and those from the Galena were ordered to the shadows of Fort Adams, but just before sunset the Atlanta, finding herself in the centre of a circle of what might, after the shadows of night had closed in, turn out to be hove up her anchor and steamed out into more open water, where there was no danger of anything approaching without its being discovered ten minutes before it could possibly get to the obstruction with which she was surrounded. Point No. 1 was scored in the Atlanta's favor. The watchword was "Porter" and was well-chosen, for the name is sufficient to nerve one to his duty. After darkness set in the pulling boats were lowered and mufflers fitted to the oar-locks to deaden the sound. Torpedo spars were rigged out and the electric wires and batteries put in those boats which had been ordered to carry them. The steam launches from the Richmond, Ossipee, Galena and Dolphin took the boats from their respective vessels in tow and steamed out to the positions assigned them. As the second hand indicated 8:15 o'clock the boats separated to a distance of about 200 yards, and keeping a bright lookout for the patrol boats from the Atlanta in order to pounce down on them before they could give warning, pulled away for the goal of whose exact whereabouts they were not quite sure, as the darkness prevented them from seeing any great distance. Shortly after 7 bells all hands were called to general quarters on board the Atlanta, guns manned and sharp-shooters took their seats and two electric lights began to throw light in all directions. The fun soon commenced and the torpedo boats were seen at a great distance from the Atlanta. As soon as a search-light had been played on one of the boats for fifteen seconds, she was counted out and a red signal light fired in her direction. Thus boat after boat was discovered till by 8:45 all attacking boats were considered by the umpires as destroyed, and the Atlanta carrying away the laurels for the day sounded the retreat.

The Council Meeting—Lieut. Erwin's Suspension Made Permanent.

The City Council met last evening. The Council Committee on Police made a report on the suspension of Lieut. Erwin by Chief Walsh sustaining the Chief's action. A vote was taken on the adoption of the report and resulted in a tie. Messrs. Cunningham, Tefft, Strecker and Marsh voted affirmatively, and Messrs. Egan, Russell, Menges and Bird voted for its rejection. Mayor Stephens then voted for the adoption of the report, and Erwin's suspension was thus made permanent. Sergt. Rodgers was appointed to the vacancy created and Officer Jeff Langley promoted to the position of Sergeant. The report of the Committee on Police, on the strength of which Erwin was discharged, was very unsatisfactory, and the manner in which the case was conducted does not meet with public approval. The report simply stated that on September 13 the committee met, heard the charges preferred against Erwin by the Chief, took evidence on both sides, and came to the conclusion that the Chief was justified in his action. The charges are stated to have been insubordination and language unbecoming an officer. What the insubordination consisted in is not stated, nor is the alleged unbecoming language given, and as the committee's meeting was held with closed doors, the real facts in the case have never been presented to the public. An open investigation was much desired by Erwin, and his friends are highly indignant at the Council's action in refusing to give him a chance to defend himself in public. The suspension of Officer McCarthy was referred to the Committee on Police. The resignations of Officers Barnes and Beadle were accepted, and James McGarrahan, Ed Cavanaugh and John Mansfield appointed. A large number of claims were allowed. An ordinance was passed providing for the laying of a sewer on Tenth street west to Illinois avenue, to Fourth street, and south on Division avenue to Cahokia Creek.

Smith, now holding court at Decatur, will decide the habeas corpus case Friday. It will be remembered that W. P. Corbin shot and killed Chas. T. Harris in front of his business place in Sullivan, about two weeks ago, since which time he has remained in jail. All but one of the witnesses of the shooting say that Corbin fired twice before Harris shot in self-defense, and that the former shot his victim twice after he had fallen. It is now known that the enmity which arose between the two men was caused by Harris stating that he had witnessed Corbin in a very compromising position with a woman of ill-repute, and this is supposed to have actuated Corbin to make the deadly assault. Corbin's moral character in this part has not been such as to cause the public to doubt the story of which Harris is credited.
